Outlook Rather Gloomy In Paris—Believe Further Negotiations To Come

By OTTO D. TOLISCHUS
International News Service Staff Correspondent

LONDON, July 2. — The British Government may come to the fore as mediator between the United States and France in the negotiations at Paris concerning the Hoover moratorium proposal, which have resulted in a deadlock, International News Service learned today upon reliable authority.

It was understood the British government submitted to the French cabinet, at its session today, a plan to assure France that the French government would not have to pay into the Bank of International Settlements the $125,000,000 guaranty fund provided under the terms of the Young plan if the Hoover moratorium proposal should go into effect.

This plan, International News Service was informed, has been agreed to by the Italian and United States governments, as well as Great Britain.

Henry Badger, today sent to the News office a bunch of delphiniums that had them all stopped. One of the plants was among the largest ever grown here.

Pa Newc bought some postage stamps at the Mahoningtown postoffice yesterday and was wondering how to get them home without letting them get stuck together. The gentleman at the window gave the solution. He said to rub the stamps over your hair. There is enough oil in the hair to keep the stamps from being sticky. Voila!

Those tall regal candles standing on the dining room table are a sad sight. They have drooped into the most undignified shapes!

Out along the Perry highway east of the city and for several miles from that location towards the city there was a heavy downpour of rain on Wednesday afternoon.

Hot? Just think back to last Thanksgiving day when the thermometer went down around zero. Cooling thought at least!

Yesterday's weather conditions resembled those encountered in the midwest to a large degree, the breeze was about as warm as the gentle temperature, and even riding in an automobile failed to give the usual cooling breeze.

Heat Sends Two To Local Hospital

Suffering from heat prostration, James Cox of Falls street and Frank Reese of Mahoning avenue were admitted to the Jameson Memorial hospital for treatment last night.

The two men are still in the hospital today and are getting along fairly well. They were in a very weak condition when admitted.

Harrisburg Reports 100—Many Prostrations Reported — Court Sheds Dignity

(International News Service)

"Fair and continued warm," torrid words which struck a chill, greeted Pennsylvanians today as they awoke from a sweltering, sleepless night to learn of eleven new deaths and many prostrations due to the current heat wave.

Sporadic thunder storms, in some instances reaching miniature cyclonic proportions, provided various sections of the state with temporary relief overnight but the mercury started its daily steady climb at daybreak.

Harrisburg 100

Harrisburg reported 100 degrees last night, highest for July since 1901, and 75 at 8 o'clock this morning. Pittsburgh's temperature, a record for the year, was 96 yesterday and got off to a fresh start at 82 this morning. Philadelphia reported 76 degrees this morning with the mercury apparently due for another skyrocketing.

Of the eleven new deaths reported, eight were directly attributed to the heat and three to drowning. Two children lost their lives in a stream near Philadelphia and a youth was drowned in a Beaver Falls pool when he suffered a heart attack.

Many Reported Dead

Four persons were overcome and died at Pittsburgh. A farm hand was found dead near York, and an iron worker, prostrated by the heat, died at Pottsville and a seventh man died at Brownsville after suffering sunstroke. A railroad laborer, overcome at Altoona, died two hours later.

Harrisburg reported five prostrations and Pittsburgh four, while no definite check for Philadelphia was available although several prostrations were reported.

A terrific thunderstorm ripped through the Cumberland Valley, bringing a temporary lull in the heat wave, but caused damage at Lancaster and Carlisle estimated at between $110,000 to $150,000.

Gas Turned On; Mother And Her Daughter Dead

Believe Daughter Made Attempt To Escape But Failed

(BULLETIN)
(International News Service)

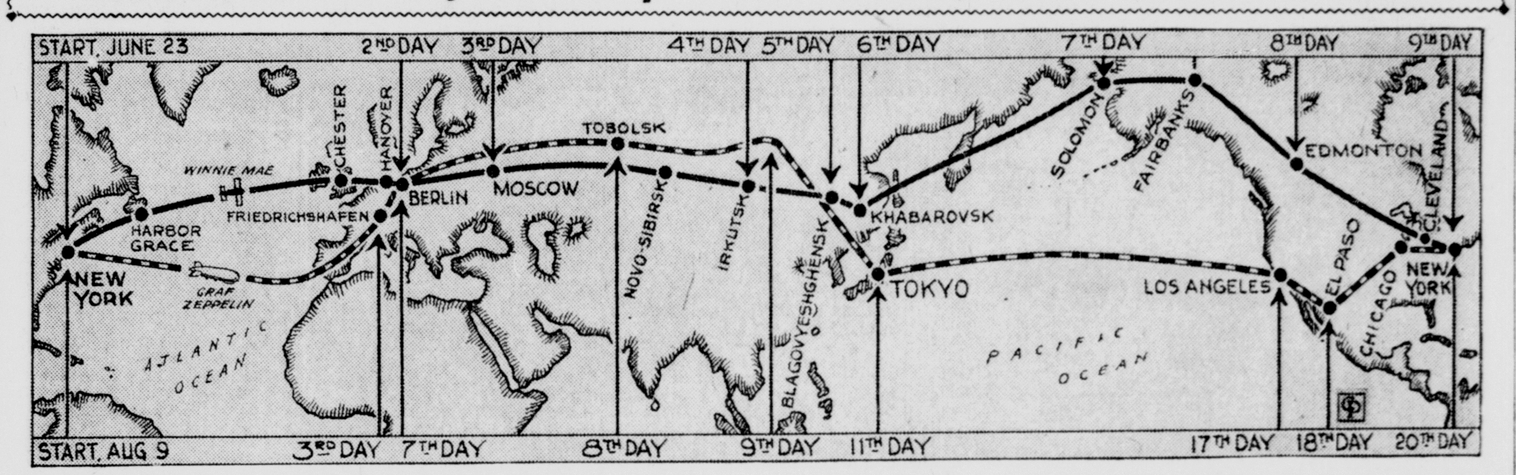

TRENTON, N. J., July 2.—Clasped in the arms of her dead mother and bearing evidence of an attempt to escape death, the body of nine-year-old Marion Henderson was found in the Henderson home at Hillsonia, fashionable suburb, today. Mother and daughter were victims of asphyxiation.

Neighbors summoned police when a strong odor of escaping gas was noticeable. Police forced their way into the home and found all jets in the kitchen range open. The mother, Mrs. Mary Henderson, 49, and Marion had been dead about four hours.

The girl was gripped closely in her mother's arms, police said, indicating she had attempted to break loose before losing consciousness. Police had to break the mother's grip before it was possible to remove the bodies.

The mother had threatened several times to commit suicide, according to Alfred Henderson, a son.

'Round-World Flyers Chop Over 11 Days Off Graf's Record

This map shows at a glance the round-the-world flights of Wiley Post and Harold Gatty and the Graf Zeppelin. The dirigible held the previous record for the achievement, circling the globe in 20 days. The two flyers, determined to cut that record in half when they left New York, attained their goal in less than nine days, an achievement generally regarded as greater than Lindbergh's solo hop across the Atlantic. The solid line shows the Post-Gatty route; broken line the Zeppelin's.

Thieves Replace Stolen New Auto Tire With An Old One

Cecil Carnes, of 1504 Grimes street, was the victim of a new type of robbery, during the present week.

He discovered yesterday that someone had lifted a new tire from one of the wheels of his auto, and had replaced it with an old one, good for about 200 miles.

The discovery was made yesterday while he was driving the car.

Then he recalled that he had allowed his car to remain on the street near his home all night. Evidently, during the night some one had jacked up the car, removed the new tire from the machine, and replaced it with the old one.

Usually when an auto tire is stolen, the thieves do not take the trouble to replace it with any other tire.

Carnes believes that the thieves wanted the tire for the Fourth touring trip.

Two Consecutive Cool Waves Are On Way From Upper Part Of Canada

(International News Service)

CHICAGO, July 2.—Promised depression of the mercury in the thermometers of sun-baked middle western America today produced sighs of relief which were almost numerous enough to swell the breeze that brought a short drop in temperature last night.

Two consecutive cool waves are on the way, according to government forecasters and if one isn't sufficient the second will surely moderate the fierce heats which have stifled the great central valleys for nearly two weeks, taking an immense toll in human lives, livestock losses and crop damages.

How To Make Best Of Heat

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, July 2.—Asserting that keeping well and comfortable in hot weather is largely a matter of common sense," Dr. C. B. Maits, director of health for the city of Pittsburgh, today asked International News Service to distribute a prepared list of "hot weather hints."

The list follows:—

1.—Dress as lightly as possible.
2.—Use discretion in getting out of the heat.
3.—Drink plenty of cold water (not ice water).
4.—Eat what you please—but don't overeat.
5.—Guard against infected food.
6.—Hold your temper.
7.—Exercise is essential—over-exertion is dangerous.
8.—Be moderate in all things.
9.—Wear hats out of doors.
10.—Be discreet—physically, mentally and emotionally.

The two flyers said that they would try to circle the globe in four laps—Paris to Tokio, to San Francisco, to New York and back to Paris. They will use the "Hyphen," the same plane in which they broke the world's record for closed circuit flying on June 10.

NEW YORK, July 2. — Wiley Post and Harold Gatty, aerial boomerangs, who sprinted around the world in eight days, 15 hours and 51 minutes today wanted to sleep but fame was knocking on their door.

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., July 2.—America is a land of opportunity and don't ever forget it. Yesterday out here in Los Angeles (where our local papers say people are dying from heat by thousands in the east), out here we are just dying, but for no particular reason at all.

Well, there was elected to a very high office, president of the Educational Association, just a plain, pleasant looking fat (and enjoying it) common sense woman. She is head of the rural schools in Maine and when you are rural in Maine you are rural. Now she is head of all the teachers in our land.

I guess from her name, Miss, that she is an old maid, but darn it I just liked her looks in the paper this morning and I believe she could teach these young modern heathens of ours some sense.

Yours,

Will Rogers.

Sweltering Reporter Makes More Heat Observations

New Castle folks looked at the skies with expectancy last evening, hoping for a storm to cool off the atmosphere, but all they got out of it were a few distant claps of thunder. Several storms seemed to pass near last evening, and added in cooling things off a little.

While the weather is so warm, bathers should take precautions about going into the water when they are overheated. When one is too warm, the sudden plunge into cool water is apt to cause cramps, the leading cause for drowning. It is better to sit in the shade for a few minutes before entering the water.

The ice men have been rushed to death the last few days. An ice wagon was noticed completing its rounds in the Croton district late last evening.

Despite the intense heat, prostrations in the local mills have not been more than normal. A few men have been forced to lay off work and

Lancaster County Storm Damage Quite Extensive

Cyclonic Wind And Rain Storm Does Damage Estimated At Near $100,000

MANY PERSONS ARE REPORTED INJURED

Buildings Unroofed—Streets Flooded—Red Cross Takes Up Relief

(International News Service)

LANCASTER, Pa., July 2.—Damage was estimated at between $60,000 and $100,000 today in the wake of a cyclonic wind and thunderstorm which swirled through here last night, unroofing twenty houses in the northern section of the city, flooding several streets and blowing down trees and chimneys. No one was injured.

The storm, whirling across the lower part of the Cumberland Valley, struck suddenly and broke as suddenly after a furious downpour of rain and a battering wind. Damage was confined principally to the northern edge of the city where the score of houses, built in a row, were unroofed and several windows were blown out.

Relief Organized

Local Red Cross officials immediately mobilized their forces to aid families driven from their homes by the storm and relief work for the homeless was well advanced today.

At Manheim, the storm unroofed one building and at Safe Harbor,

Last year for the same period, approximately two months, nine thousand seven hundred and seventy persons played golf.

Half Million In Bonus Loans Received Here

Over Twelve Hundred Applications Made By Local Veterans, It Is Found

AVERAGE SLIGHTLY OVER $400 EACH

World War veterans from New Castle and the immediate vicinity have received around a half million dollars from the U. S. Veterans Bureau in the four months which have elapsed since the bill permitting fifty per cent loans on the face of Adjusted Service Certificates went into effect, a survey here today showed.

A total of 1,075 applications have been handled by the Lawrence County Chapter, American Red Cross, Secretary Potter stated this morning. In addition to this number, there have been several hundred who have made individual applications themselves, or who have applied through other agencies.

The average amount secured has been around $400. Many have had more than this amount due them, but had made previous loans on their certificates, cutting down the amount received at this time.

Applications are still being made through the Red Cross office at a rate of between two to five a day.

It is possible that veterans residing in outlying sections of the county have made application through other sources, which would bring the total amount paid out in the county to over a half million dollars.

Bandits Rob R. R. Kegarise

WARREN, O., July 2—The moon from today on is no friend of R. R. Kegarise, of New Castle.

He was fixing a tire near the Geagua County Line here. Two bandits drove up, ordered him to raise his hands, and removed $43 from his pockets.

As they were leaving, the moon appeared from behind a cloud and lit up the diamond ring which Kegarise had attempted to hide from the bandits. They added the "sparkler" to their loot before fleeing.

New York Gives Formal Welcome To World Fliers

TICKER TAPE IS SHOWERED ON THEM

Tremendous Roar Of Appreciation Given Pair On Parade To City Hall

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, July 2. — Harold Gatty and Wiley Post, record breaking around the world flyers, moved through the traditional welcome Manhattan bestows on the famous.

Refreshed by their first full night's sleep in more than nine days, the two flyers, accompanied by their wives, moved from the Battery up through the towering financial district of lower Broadway to the City Hall.

Get Characteristic Welcome

A spontaneous roar of real appreciation rang in the ears of the aviators as the parade moved slowly up the famous street.

Tons of ticker tape, torn up telephone books, were showered down on the flyers.

Gatty and Post were awakened about nine o'clock this morning when Mrs. Harold Gatty arrived this morning from Pittsburgh. Dressed in a trim white sports outfit, Mrs. Gatty broke into the room and awakened her sleeping husband with a kiss.

Shortly after Gatty and Post were singing in their showers while Mrs. Gatty and Mrs. Post ordered man-size breakfasts for their husbands.

Arthur Mometer

As you read this little ditty, on your front porch neat and pretty, and you're waiting on the wife to get some eats, may I tell you rather briefly that the Arthur engineer is endeavoring to lick the summer heat. Far away among the mountains where the spruce topped ridges rise, he's enjoying every minute of the life, but this time he isn't lonely as he trods the mountain paths, for he's travelling with his first and only wife. And he views the mountain moonlight from a cool secluded nook, where the world seems to be mighty far away, and there are no city noises to disturb his tranquil calm, wish you luck it's gone to ninety-six today.

Pa Newc last night heard several local people talk about taking a week-end cruise on the Atlantic. An ocean breeze would be quite pleasant just now.

"Sprinkling parties" seem quite popular here. The father of the family attaches the garden hose, turns on the water and the children, arrayed in bathing suits, scream and giggle in the cooling shower.

Pa Newc hauled a Mahoningtown boy to West Washington street yesterday. The chap said he was going swimming at Harbor bridge. After he had left the auto, Pa Newc noticed he had left his bathing suit on the floor. This is a plea for leniency, in case the boy was arrested. But perhaps he didn't go in swimming.

Rev. Oscar Woods, pastor of the Bethany Lutheran church, reports a splendid recipe for keeping cool these days. It comes from an elderly member of his church, who was standing inside the church door one hot evening this week when a young miss came puffing in and said "My, isn't it hot" and with a smile the old lady said, "Oh, it isn't so bad," and the young lady said, "How do you manage to keep so cool?" to which the elderly lady replied "I just keep smiling."

FAME PREVENTS EXTRA SLEEP FOR POST AND GATTY

mountain ranges, arid deserts, unseen lands and untouched clouds, the cream-colored monoplane streaked to glory under the scientific whip of a one-time Oklahoma farmer for pilot and a lean Australian as navigator. Mercury had only wings on his heels.

Ready To Sleep

"We just got fifteen hours sleep during the flight," said Post. "Now we'll do some serious sleeping."

(Post told a pal confidentially it was only seven hours.)

Serious sleeping. A couple of optimistic heroes.

The buzz that rose to the skies after the world-girdlers shot their plane to earth at Roosevelt field at 8:47 p. m. grew to a national roar of acclamation as the sun rose today.

Reception committees, interviewers, photographers, radio broadcasters did not let the nine-day flying wonders fall into bed until 2 a. m. this morning. And at 10 a. m. the rip-roaring official welcome of New York was scheduled to begin—a boat ride down the harbor, a parade to City Hall, luncheon dinner, and mob hysterics.

To hear those boys talk about their trip you'd think they had only flown across the Hudson river.

"We didn't have much trouble," said Post. "It came out just as we expected.

Just A Little Tough

"It wa sa little tough crossing the Atlantic and shooting across the Bering Sea to Nome, Alaska. On that leg we had a lot of thick weather and storms and couldn't see where we were going.

"At Kharbarovsk, Siberia, we got some bad Russian oil in our motors and it fouled the spark-plugs. That held us up, otherwise we would have been here much sooner.

"How was the scenery? I didn't look. It was all just like flying over Oklahoma."

A lone blue-white plane with history written all over it streaked out of the West as a pink and purple sky was beginning to turn into black night.

The Winnie Mae banked twice around the field as 15,000 persons yelled and vibrated.

The round-the-world plane had barely finished a perfect landing when the riot was on.

Mob Surrounds Plane

The crowd moved hestitantly against the chain of police. Then it charged. The mob surged almost against the whirring propeller.

The policemen flailed left and right. The mob kept on surging. One enthusiast held aloft a red flaming torch. A policeman knocked it from his hand and wildly tossed it into the crowd. The police were using their clubs—even against the U. S. Customs officials who had come out on the field to clear the flying travellers.

Wiley Post climbed out of his cockpit. Sparks from photographers' flashlights endangered the plane. Harold Gatty clambered wearily onto a wing. They both looked tired and nine days weary.

Police motor cycles charged into the crowd. Women—and men—screamed. The unbruised cheered. They had to help the two flyers to the ground, so tired were they. A flying wedge of cops formed and preceded by the motor cycles fought their way to the field operations office.

Kisses Husband

The young and pretty wife of Post kissed her husband. She was caught in the riot.

Afterwards she said that all her husband had said to her was:

"Hello."

Then she added:

"But he kissed me."

There began a triumphal motor trip back to New York City. Along the road crowds were lined. They cheered, women in the slum districts held up their babies to see. Motorists honked their horns.

"All I want is to sleep and some more water," said Post.

Gatty clutched tightly through it all the message from his wife which she gave International News Service to deliver.

"I'm glad she wasn't in this crush," he said.

Mrs. Gatty was delayed in Pittsburgh as she was flying eastward due to bad weather. She took a train and will arrive today.

down from Alberta, Canada, perhaps stirred up by the round-the-world flyers.

The refreshing local showers and varying winds came none too soon. Chicago passed its hottest July 1, the official reading being set down at 99 although several suburbs reported 107 degrees as the high mark.

Seventy-eight lives were claimed by the oppressive heat in Chicago yesterday to bring the total since Friday to 244. All ages were stricken, from a little girl four days old to gray-haired veterans, with most of the deaths among the aged.

Outside Chicago the death list grew in downstate Illinois, Iowa, Missouri, Wisconsin, Michigan, Indiana, Kentucky, Ohio and Pennsylvania until the total for the two weeks may reach 1,000.

High Temperatures Reported

The cooler weather has spread eastward to Western Nebraska, parts of the Dakotas, Oklahoma, Western Minnesota and Kansas which has been blistered by two weeks of 100 degree blasts. This pressure area has been moving slowly eastward behind the heat wave but may pick up speed in the Great Lakes region and break the torrid spell entirely within two days.

Some of the high temperatures reported yesterday were Decator, Ill., 105; Hammond, Ind., 104; Ottawa, Ill., 104; Wheeling, W. Va., 103, and St. Louis, 100.

go home, while one or two were taken to local hospitals but soon recovered.

Some folks claimed that it was cooler at their place last night, while others argued it was warmer. There seemed to be a little more breeze during the night, if such a thing was possible, but as far as temperatures were concerned, it was hotter.

We heard one fellow make the assertion that the temperature was lower in one certain building, because they had a lot of electric fans going. Scientists will tell you however, that the wind, or breeze, whether natural or artificial does not change the temperature. It might make one feel cooler, because the air is in motion, but electric fans will not lower the temperature.

Yesterday was the hottest day of the year, and if there had not been as much moisture in the air, it would have been hotter. The humidity of the air helps to lower the temperature. When there is more moisture it keeps the temperature down; when there is less, the temperature is apt to be a point or two higher than otherwise. Last summer, it will be remembered, the temperature got up to 100 degrees on several occasions, which was the highest experienced in some years, and no doubt, this was due to the fact that there was less moisture in the air last summer because of the drought.

The extreme heat of the past few days has caused the leaves of garden produce to curl up, as if they were burned. This has been noticed by many gardeners, in spite of the fact that there is still plenty of moisture in the ground.

The heat of the last few evenings has caused the corn to grow rapidly. In some places, one can almost see it grow, several local gardners asserted. It won't be long now until some of those who got their corn crop in early, will be enjoying roasting ears.

While the rest of the populance in town here has been sweltering from the heat, De Lace Cole informs us they have to sleep under blankets out along the Slippery Rock, where the Cole family is camping.

Just to prove that it was hotter than an ordinary day should be, Wednesday, Cecil Carnes of Lyndal street took an egg and a little grease out onto the new pavement of the street at 1:30 p. m. and broke the egg and, believe it or not, the egg was fried so that one could have eaten it had he so desired.

Farm houses and barns throughout Cumberland county felt the force of the storm, which struck shortly after dusk.

Barn Collapses

Near Shippensburg, two farmers narrowly escaped death when they ran from a collapsing barn and took refuge in a silo, near Shippensburg, a $10,000 barn on the farm of Joseph Miller collapsed under a furious wind, several trees were blown down and windows in the farmhouse were shattered. A nearby barn was unroofed.

Three other barns were unroofed and a fourth collapsed under the battering wind.

GREAT BRITAIN MAY MEDIATE IN DEBT DEADLOCK

French objections to his plan for a moratorium on war debts.

The manner of various ministers gave rise to the belief that the cabinet had declined to meet President Hoover's requests.

"The negotiations will be most difficult if the United States maintains the attitude expressed in the memorandum," said one member of the cabinet.

Questioned by correspondents at the close of the meeting, Premier Pierre Laval said laconically:

"The council of ministers has examined President Hoover's memorandum."

To Make Oral Reply

Beyond that statement he refused to go. From his attitude it was believed that the French government was prepared to hold out for its counter-proposal for a moratorium even at the risk of international isolation.

International News Service was reliably informed that the premier would not hand a written reply to the American negotiators, Andrew W. Mellon, secretary of the treasury, and Walter E. Edge, ambassador to France, but would make it orally.

The reply is to be given the American at 9:30 tonight (4:30 P. M. New York time).

It was believed in official quarters that negotiations would continue. It was indicated that further efforts would be made to convince the United States government that France should not be obliged to yield any further on the question of German reparations.

NEW YORK GIVES FORMAL WELCOME TO WORLD FLIERS

porters, photographers and city officials and dignitaries, the flyers, their wives and F. C. Hall, the financial backer of the flight, boarded the municipal reception boat, the Macom, and went down the Hudson river to the Battery.

At the Battery they were placed in open automobiles and seated on the back of the rear seat and rode up Broadway to the accompaniment of the cheers of millions.

Given Gold Medals.

NEW YORK, July 2.—The greatest crowd in this city of many millions since the memorable Lindbergh parade, today turned out to look at and cheer for Wiley Post and Harold Gatty, the two human rockets who ringed the earth in their flash of a plane in less than nine days.

In a triumphal procession up lower Broadway their automobile was hub-deep in an ocean of confetti and golden ticker tape cascaded from the office skyscrapers.

The city roared its official and personal welcome. Harbor craft shrieked, and the millions yelled from the packed throngs on the curb to the upper windows and ledges to which office workers precariously clung.

At city hall, Mayor Jimmie Walker presented the two round-the-world fliers with gold medals.

"You men have not only exceeded the speed limit but have made more mileage out of nine days than any-one ever heard of heretofore," said Mayor "Jimmie" with a smile.

The mayor, in a more serious interval, expressed the great national interest aroused by their epic achievement.

Then he added a witticism concerning their plane "Winnie Mae."

"I have an idea that over Russia and the far north, you decided that it was the 'Winnie Must' and when you returned to Roosevelt Field it became the 'Winnie Did.'"

Dr. John Finley, chairman of the reception committee, declared that the fliers "might have been taken for me from the planet Mars."

"Your feat makes every American grateful to live in such an age of progress," he said. "It shows we can still grow men who can match any machine devised. And it shows that the world is smaller than ever."

Responding to the tributes, Post said:

"It is beyond words for me to express my appreciation at this wonderful reception."

And that was all.

Gatty said just about as much.

"Mr. Calvin Coolidge couldn't do any better than that," remarked Dr. Finley, and everybody laughed, including Post, Gatty and their two pretty wives.

ROUND THE WORLD IN EIGHT DAYS

JULES VERNE'S fantastic story of a trip around the world in eighty days was put on the shelf forever, last night, when two American fliers, Wiley Post and Harold Gatty landed in New York city in eight days and sixteen hours from the time they had left, completing a trip round the world in the meantime.

Just nine days ago, a world fed up on ocean hops and aerial stunts showed a passing interest only in the start of the flight of these two unknown birdmen, when they started out to cross the Atlantic ocean on the first hop of their trip. It seemed like an old story after Lindbergh, Chamberlin, Byrd, and a host of others who had preceded them in the sea crossing.

But a few days later the world began to realize that it didn't have the correct slant on these fliers. They meant to do exactly what they set out to do, make a trip around the world in ten days. Yesterday they ended their flight and completed the trip in even a shorter time than they set out to accomplish.

Only Monday these men were in Siberia, while a week ago they were in Europe. There may have been added no particular scientific features for the world of aviation, yet the flight at least captured the imagination and gave the entire world a thrill that it had never before experienced.

The flight once again emphasized the reliability of the modern airplane and the fact that the days of speed are here in a way never dreamed of in past generations.

Probably, some of these days, some daring fliers will evolve some way of having a plane refueled in the air and will start a non-stop flight around the world.

We wouldn't be surprised.

THESE PEOPLE SHOULD KNOW

"If prohibition were working the havoc with young people in our high schools which its extreme opponents clamorously assert, is it the least probable that the department of superintendence of the National Education Association would vote with practical unanimity approval of the Eighteenth Amendment?" The Chicago Evening Post, (As quoted by the National Advocate), continues to argue that since the membership of the groups is predominately male, it cannot be charged that the solution was stampeded by feminine emotion. These men speak with authority. If the sensational stories of the wets were 50 per cent true, is there any doubt that these educators would rise up in a chorus for repeal? As it was, the vote to support the Eighteenth Amendment was practically unanimous. The Post expresses some surprise at this display of opinion, and concludes by saying, "These people should know the facts in their own field, and be intelligent enough to weigh and judge them."

CONFIDENCE

After President Hoover suggested a loan to Germany and a year's moratorium on war loans and reparations the threat of anarchy in Germany vanished, market values jumped several points at a time, the price of wheat and cotton and other commodities increased hundreds of millions of dollars and the flagging energy of whole nations was renewed. Why, asked all mankind? What tremendous force was at work?

It was not President Hoover. Nor was it the magic of authority. The plan was not dynamic enough in itself to accomplish all this. But if it was not one of these, what was it?

Hope and confidence! The magic of the president's words and scheme lies in the hope and confidence they fathered. The people discovered in them a sincere and determined effort among statesmen to break every precedent, overcome every obstacle and turn up every stone until the enslaving bonds of depression have been broken and the world set free to build up another towering structure of prosperity and economic stability.

President Hoover has restored hope. The next step is from hope to confidence. If hope can accomplish so much, confidence can perform miracles. Nor is it beyond the power of governments and business and financial leaders to create that confidence.

ONE PRESIDENTIAL CANDIDATE DROPS OUT

Disturbed by reports that he was taking seriously the suggestion that he become a candidate for the presidency, Will Rogers, the comedian, has killed his boom in its very infancy. He says positively he will not run "for anything;" he declares that he not only "don't choose to run," but that he "won't run.' His philosophy is sensible. It is that when a funny man begins to take himself seriously he is lost. So he insists that, no matter how badly he may be needed, he is not going to be a candidate. One reason is that it costs a lot of money "even to be beaten.'

Will Rogers mingles a great deal of wisdom with his humor and when he says he would not know whether to come out "wet" or "dry" because he is not quite certain which side will control the largest number of votes, he is simply stating the attitude of hundreds of candidates for public office. But why should Will long for the white house anyhow? He is making four or five times the salary of the president of the United States; his time is his own, he is without any responsibility and he is having lots of fun into the bargain.

His withdrawal simplifies the political situation and makes it possible for the two old parties to line up for their regular quadrennial battle.

UNNECESSARY NOISE

Some one has launched an international campaign for silence. "Noise," he says, "is the great destroyer of nerves. It decreases the power of human efforts and is the greatest menace of our time." To this assertion any city dweller who rises to the matin song of clanging cans and rumbling wheels and goes to bed to the tune of automobile horns and gears will say amen.

Cards bearing 10 commandments have been distributed. They admonish all to "speak softly," "work quietly," and "relax often." If the campaign were generally successful, there might be difficulty for the faithful in the matter of obeying both of the two mandates, "talk little" and "listen much," for there would be little to be listened to.

If the spirit which prescribes loud talking and careless door-slamming could be extended to muffle traffic noises, abolish the din of construction gangs, and of neighborhood gangs of youngsters, community life would not be the wearing existence that it now is. In such a millennium radio would dispense with loud-speakers, or else broadcast only such music as the whispering tenor sings. For a campaign song, it might be suggested that the noise-suppressors use "Silent Night"—and Day.

Of hope for the success of the campaign the public has none. Heretofore, the only thing talk for quiet accomplished was augmentation of the whole sum of noise by that much talk.

A Mystery Story
Scared Out of Town
Did It Really Happen?

By MARSHALL MASLIN

I heard this story many years ago and couldn't understand it. I don't usually believe uncanny stories. I say to myself, "There must be some easy and natural and commonplace explanation of the mystery! there must be!" . . . I said that to myself when I first heard this strange tale, and I've never been able to figure it out. It goes away and comes back and goes away again and always puzzles me, but I suppose I'll never know the answer. Still, I keep on wondering.

* * *

The man to whom this happened and who told it is dead now. He never understood it, either.

He was riding on a train and he became ill. He had been drinking too much and he feared delirium tremens. So, in the middle of night, when the train stopped at a city, he left it and went to a hospital for treatment. He didn't even know the name o f the city. He'd never been there. All he knew of that place was the clean, white room in which he lay and fought off delirium.

In that delirium a strange thing happened to him. He kept looking at a black speck on the wall. It would widen and split open and then a head would pop out, the bearded gnome head of a tiny man. . . . The little graybeard talked to him, mocked him, consoled him. And every day he told the man in the bed of a family that lived in that city. He said that they lived in a house three blocks down the street and two blocks to the right. It was a handsome, old, white house in a garden, with an iron fence in front of it. The people who lived there were named Wright.

Finally, the little, old man went away and didn't return, and after a few weeks the stranger became entirely rested and was well again. He was dismissed from the hospital and as he walked down its front stairs he said to himself: "I think I'll walk three blocks down the street and two blocks to the right—and see for myself about that house."

He did that. He walked the three blocks and the two blocks and he came to a corner and saw, across the way, a fine, old house, painted white, in a garden, with an ornamental iron fence around it. He'd NEVER seen it before. . . . He held his breatah. . . . Some people came along and he said to them: "Pardon me, but can you tell me where the Wrights live? . . . They said: "Right over there in that white house."

What did the man do? He turned pale with fear, went directly to the station and left that town. He never went back. He had stumbled on something terribly strange, too much for him, but he never stopped wondering about it.

Did it really happen? Or was it pure imagination? Can you explain it? Was it just a coincidence? Or is it one of those things that Shakespeare had in mind when he had his Hamlet say: "There are more things in heaven and earth, Horatio, than are dreamt of in your philosophy?" . . . What do you think?

NINE YEARS OLD

At nine a little girl begins
To beg her pa and ma for twins
Or if we can't arrange for two,
Another baby boy will do,
Or if we can afford the price
A little girl is sometimes nice,
But anyhow she often weeps
Because no babies come for "keeps."

At nine a little girl will shout
When older people are about
And rush into the room pell-mell
Her day's adventurings to tell.
Though older tongues may talking be
She'll pay no heed to them, for she
Has something marvelous to state
Which positively cannot wait.

Nor look, nor shaking head, nor frown,
Can tone that nine-year spirit down.
So filled her world is with delight
She finds no time to be polite,
Where everything is bright and new,
So much there is for her to do,
That she forgets our good advice
And all our talk of being nice.

At nine years old a little girl
Has hair that will not stay in curl,
And legs so bruised and scratched that she
Is oft a sorry sight to see.
Her strength has just begun to flower,
She's into mischief every hour—
A victim of the awkward stage,
And yet it is a lovely age.

What Is Golf?

Golf is a form of work made expensive enough for a man to enjoy. A physical and mental exercise made so attractive that you have to dress for it in a $200,000 club-house. It is what letter carrying, ditch digging, and carpet beating, would be if the three tasks had to be performed on the same hot afternoon in short pants and colored socks by gouty-looking gentlemen who require a different implement for every mood

Golf is the simplest game in the world when you decide to take it up and the toughest after you have been at it 10 to 12 years. It is probably the only known game a man can play for a quarter of a century, and then discover that it was too deep for him in the first place.

The game is played on carefully selected grass with white balls, and as many clubs as the player can afford. The balls cost from $0.75 to $1.25, and it's possible to support a family of ten for five months on the money represented by the balls lost by some golfers in a single afternoon.

A golf course has eighteen holes, seventeen of which are unnecessary just put in to make the game harder. A "hole" is a tin cup in the center of a "green." A "green" is a small parcel of grass costing about $1.98 a blade, usually located between a brook and a couple of apple trees or a lot of "unfinished excavation."

The idea is to get the golf ball from a given point into each of the eighteen cups in the fewest strokes and the greatest number of words. It must not be thrown, pushed or carried, but propelled by about $200 worth of curious looking implement especially designed to provoke the owner. Each has a specific purpose and ultimately some golfers get to know what the purpose is. They are the exceptions.

After each hole has been completed the golfer counts his strokes. Then he substracts six and says, "made that in five. That's one above par. Shall we play for fifty cents or the next hole, too?"

After the eighteenth hole, the golfer adds up his score and stops when he has reached 87. He then has a win, a pint of gin, sings "Sweet Adeline" with six or eight other liars and calls it the end of a perfect day.

Reparations And War Debts Associated In American Comments With World Depression And Delayed Payments Are Believed To Be Worth Testing As Remedy

With few exceptions, American public opinion expresses itself favorably toward President Hoover's proposal for a war-debt holiday.

"The general feeling," says the CHICAGO DAILY NEWS, "is that a constructive and courageous step at last has been taken toward the economic rehabilitation of a depressed and discouraged world." The ATLANTA JOURNAL declares that, "whether or no the President's move is the best that might have been made in that direction, the important thing is that prolonged inaction has given away to constructive effort." The Journal holds that if it will "enable hard-pressed governments and discouraged peoples to catch their breath and recover their balance, any sacrifice which the indulgence may now require will abundantly offset by permanent gains." The CINCINNATI TIMES-STAR thinks that 'at the bottom of an extended depression the world of commerce and industry has been resting on a dead center, awaiting an impetus that would send it forward."

"Expert opinion didn't expect any of the war settlements to be permanent," says the NEWARK EVENING NEWS, which believes that, "false promises were held out," and that "there was a catering to human nature, with expert opinion aware that more liberal settlements would have to be substituted in time." The BALTIMORE SUN points out that "calculation of the justice of any debt running in monetary units involves consideration of what has happened to the purchasing power of money since the debt was contracted." The SAN FRANCISCO CHRONICLE records that "finance understands that if Germany can be helped out of her distress, the world depression will be lessened and the condition of the United States be improved."

"President Hoover" according to the OKLAHOMA CITY TIMES, "finds himself supported by leaders of both parties at home and by many of the leaders of other nations. Only time can prove the true merit of his proposal, but it has proved a measure of usefulness in the rising hopes expressed in many quarters." The approval of Great Britain impresses the PROVIDENCE JOURNAL as "especially significant" since 'a nation so persistently adhering from century to century to the doctrine of the sanctity of international obligations gives its hearty assent to the proposal."

"Given a reasonable chance," declares the ST. LOUIS POST-DISPATCH, "both Republicans and Democrats will gladly lend a hand. Mr. Hoover appreciates this, and in doing so he is deserving of commendation, not in our country alone but everywhere. He has shown what non-partisanship can do." The CHARLOTTE OBSERVER calls it "significant that among the most outspoken supporters of the President are leading Democrats, such as Newton Baker, Pat Harrison and Owen D. Young."

"The effect upon the stock markets of the world is manifestly exhilarating" states the ST. LOUIS GLOBE-DEMOCRAT. "Everywhere it is apparently regarded as the opening of a new economic era." The PITTSBURGH POST-GAZETTE advises that "there is no mistaking the way world opinion is running," and that 'it wants the Hoover plan put into effect as soon as possible."

The ROANOKE WORLD-NEWS, condemning the French arguments, recalls that 'immediately after the United States declared war in 1917, Virginians, almost without exception applauded a proposal of Congressman Andrew Jackson Montague, of Virginia that the first act looking to war preparations be the outright gift of a billion dollars to France." The actual transactions are reviewed, with the declaration that "Great Britain is carrying the major share of the load." That paper concludes: "The French contention that reparations payments represent the cost of rehabilitating regions of France devasted during the World War hardly corresponds with accounts of underground fortresses France is now constructing from the

MORE USEFULL THAN HELL-FIRE

For centuries, religion was the only means given to man to challenge the supremacy of death. Then came life insurance and offered man another kind of weapon, a weapon so valuable that in 1927 more than 130 billion dollars of life insurance was in effect throughout the world.

The people of the United States are the greatest believers in life insurance. Of every $10 invested in all countries in life insurance, $7 are invested in the United States. More than 87 billion dollars worth of life insurance was in effect in 1927 in the United States. That was $733 for every man, woman and child in the country.

Insurance is not a new idea, but only in recent years has it commenced to be appreciated. And now a little more than half of the people of the United States have insurance on their lives.

Since the beginning of this century, the population of the United States increased by one-half. The number of life insurance policy holders increased more than six times. And the amount of insurance in effect increased ten times.

In 1927, the people of the United States purchased nearly seventeen billion dollars worth of life insurance. That is nearly double the entire amount of life insurance in effect in the beginning of the century.

During the twenty-seven years of this century, life insurance has paid to the beneficiaries and policy holders of the United States nearly seventeen billion dollars, an amount equal to all of the new life insurance purchased in 1927.

Life insurance is erecting for the people of the United States a formidable barrier against waste, ignorance, social disorders and the fear of want and death.

RULE THAT TEMPER

You know that you are snappy and quick-tempered and you often have to make excuses for yourself on such a score.

You are sharp and cutting in your remarks but you cannot understand why people are not generous enough to overlook this trait.

If your outbursts are unwarranted why should they be excused?

Should you be encouraged to continue such a course?

To be a normal person you must put a check on your emotions, to the extent of holding yourself under control when the provocation is slight.

Allowing your temper to rule you and then having to apologize is bad business.

To be so discourteous and not apologize is worse.

Life is too short to be always on guard against offending a "touchy" person.

It is better to drop the friends who must be handled with gloves.

There is a strain on self respect following displays of temper.

Especially does the one of high ideals feel personally disgraced after losing grip on his or her emotions sufficiently to show heated irritation.

Strengthen your influence by ruling your temper.

Be master of yourself.

Bible Thought For Today

Christ Lives—For if the dead rise not, then is not Christ raised. And if Christ be not raised, your faith is vain; ye are yet in your sins.

Reforestration Is Slow, Hard Fight, Staley Says

HARRISBURG, July 2—Only two generations of trees have elapsed since the thirteen original colonies won their fight for independence, yet everyone of these states—Pennsylvania included—is today increasingly dependent upon lumber and other forest products from outside sources, it was pointed out today by Secretary Lewis E. Staley of the State Department of Forests and Waters.

Pennsylvania at the time of the Revolution was well wooded. By far the greater part of her virgin forests were still standing in 1775. Relatively little of the original timber had been cut by the middle of the last century. During the next fifty years, up to 1899, the number cut grew steadily and rapid depletion of forest resources was the order of the day.

The lumber from Penn's Woods contributed to a far greater extent than was generally appreciated today, Secretary Staley said. But the uncontrolled forest fires that followed in the wake of ax and saw repeatedly burning the naturally productive forest soils, deprived us of a forest independence which we otherwise might have enjoyed.

There are 13,000,000 acres of forest land in Pennsylvania, and had this area been permitted to grow timber crops without interruption, all of our present timber supplies could have been grown at home and Pennsylvania would have a lumber and wood business eight to ten times as great as we now enjoy.

"The present lumber cut of Pennsylvania is little more than 300,000,000 board feet annually as against a consumption fully seven times as great," Staley said. "Six out of every seven board feet we use are imported. Of our total consumption of pulpwood amounting to nearly 500,000 cords a year, three-fourths comes in from outside the state. Likewise, we import 60 per cent of our railroad ties and more than half of our mine timbers.

"The fight for forest independence is a fight to retrieve a heritage lost by years of abuse and neglect. Unlike the fight of the colonists against the mother country, it cannot be won in eight years. And to win it we must fight on the side of Mother Nature, from whom we took it away. The time that will be required to put our forests in order depends largely upon the efforts put forth by each and every forest land owner to make every acre of land more productive."

EVENING POST avers "The Hoover assurances on the international situation may be compared almost to the statement of some big bank that it stands ready to help a small bank that is in trouble." The NEW ORLEANS TIMES-PICAYUNE hails the new confidence, "whose lack has prolonged and intensified the depression."

"After all" thinks the NEW YORK SUN, 'what the world needs most is confidence in its own ability to come back. If in this country it were possible to rid every potential purchaser of the fear that he paralyzed his buying hand, the depression would soon end." The BIRMINGHAM NEWS feels that "President Hoover undoubtedly believes that in the long run the United States will benefit." The stimulation that means confidence is lauded by the TOPEKA DAILY CAPITAL.

"A year of heightened confidence may easily build up trade so that no further measures will be required" in the judgement of FORT WORTH STAR-TELEGRAM. The BUFFALO EVENING TIMES NEWS contends that "a psychological impulse to convince the great consuming public that an upward turn had begun was the great need in the struggle to overcome depression." The ROCHESTER TIMES-UNION maintains that 'it does not necessarily follow that the tax burden of this county will be any heavier."

Voicing a different appraisal of the situation, the CHICAGO DAILY TRIBUNE makes the argument: "There is no visible sacrifice which any nation but the United States proposes to make. The other nations willingly drop all responsibility again at the American door. Their statesmanship contrived a war they couldn't end. It made a peace which could not be lived. They brought the United States in to end the war. They made a peace it could not accept. They borrowed money for the war and money for the peace. Militarily, socially, financially, industrially and politically they have confessed themselves bankrupt, in most of these factors three times confessed. What would a sensible crediator do when this poverty was laid at his door? He would ask the debtors first to bring him their assets and permit an arrangement which aimed at solvency. Then he could make the concessions needed for recovery. The United States was not too proud to fight. It is too soft to negotiate."

Russian Invalids Put On Light Jobs

(International News Service)

MOSCOW, July 2—Forty thousand invalids and old age-pensioners are being put to work again this year at light jobs to release able bodied men and women for work in industries where there is a shortage of labor. The measure is expected to save the government several million rubles a year.

Pensioners who report for work as messengers, watchmen or handicraft work will receive from one-half to thee-quarters of their present pensions in addition to wages which will be lower than the prevailing scale on the assumption that invalids will not be able to work as hard as regular workmen.

If they stay on such jobs for two years before retiring again their pensions will be increased 20 per cent over the present rates, which average about 40 rubles ($20) a month.

Collective farms also are being induced to take in pensioners for light labor. For every pensioner employed the collective farm will receive the entrance fee of 60 rubles from the Social Insurance department and a sum equivalent to six months of the invalid's pension which would be suspended because the collective farm pays wages to the pensioner.

DEAN INGE'S VISION

(International News Service)

LONDON,—Dean Inge, in an address before the Royal Institution, said: "Let us suppose that 500 years of Bolshevist rule in Russia produces a completely mechanized man. Let us contemplate a polity in which every spark of initiative, every noble aspiration, every desire for freedom, have been extinguished by ruthless elimination. We might then have a polity distantly approaching the insect type, except that the extreme differentiation of the bees and ants could not be imitated in our species."

LOOKING BACK IN NEW CASTLE

The Mikado Club conjures memories of many people of this city back to a period of something like thirty years ago, when this city had in its midst a group of non-professional singers who could have graced the professional footlights and in fact some of them did later, with great success. Organized for the purpose of putting on amateur operatic productions for the entertainment of the people of this community and for the social benefit of those afiliated in the organization The Mikado Club did put on several operas here, which were so excellent, that standing room only was in vogue many days in advance of the actual production of these operas. The first was The Mikado. Another that was very successfully reproduced was Brian Boru. A few of the names of individuals that this brings back to memory are Park V. Hogan, master musician and director, Sue Harvard (Armstrong), Miss Clark, John Taranlais, Thomas and David Lloyd. There is but little doubt that this organization was the foundation stepping stone for much of the success of amateur performances that have been successfully put on in the years since its existence. And the name and fame of New Castle as a musical center will ever be linked up with the memory of this famous organization and the performances that it put on.

Tomorrow: Professional Baseball Days in New Castle.

American Asks Leave To Enter Chinese College

Secures Permission To Study In American Founded College

(International News Service)

PEIPING, July 2.—Permission has been granted to the unique request of an American, John King Fairbank, to come to China and study in Tsing Hua University.

That institution was founded with money refunded by the United States Government from the Boxer Indemnity and has been largely staffed with American teachers. Now the tables have been turned and instead of Americans teaching Chinese students, Mr. Fairbank will be an undergraduate working under Chinese teachers.

The new American student is a graduate of the Class of '29 of Harvard and is at present at Oxford as a Rhodes scholar. His special field is research into the origin of the foreign inspectorate of the Chinese Maritime. While at Oxford he has been studying Chinese in preparation for his courses at Tsing Hua University.

The History Department which Mr. Fairbank will enter is under the leadership of Professor Tsiang, American trained scholar who is well known for his contributions to the American Historical Review and the Cambridge Historical Journal.

Scouts Will Hear Wild Life Stories

HARRISBURG, July 2—Within the next few days many of the large Boy Scout Councils of the western part of the Commonwealth will meet around the campfire to listen to stories of Pennsylvania's Wild Life and to hear about the many activities of the Game Commission, which are necessary to perpetuate it.

Harry Van Cleve, assistant chief of the Bureau of Predatory Animals and veteran trapper, and Chauncey Logue, famous for his bear stories, and also a veteran trapper, will have charge of the two traveling live animal exhibits which will visit the Scout camps. About sixteen camps will be reached, the plan being at the present time to spend about two days in each area. Many of the summer camps range in attendance from 300 to 2000 Scouts. Some of the animals used will include bear cubs, fawn deer, raccooners, foxes, young beaver, a wild cat, and a display of mounted hawks and others.

WEIGHTY LUGGAGE

"No doubt you will allow me to take my laundry with me," said the haughty lodger who had been rather delinquent in his payments.

"Certainly," replied the landlady. "Your other collar is downstairs!"

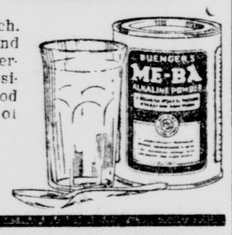

WAS THAT NECESSARY?

The tourist rushed into the country store. "I wanna quart of oil, some gas, a couple of spark plugs, a timer, a five-gallon kerosene can, and four pie tins."

"All righty," replied the enterprising clerk, "and you can assemble 'er in the back room if you want to."

Lewis Orders War On Illegal Signs

HARRISBURG, July 2.—Illegal signs posted along state highways are scheduled for prompt and speedy removal by the Pennsylvania Department of Highways, according to Sam Lewis, Secretary of Highways. Lewis has directed his maintenance forces to scan every foot of the roadside bordering the highway system and tear down all outlaw signs by July 15.

Particular attention will be devoted to signs imitating official markers, many of which are popular with eating stands. "Stop" or "Warning" signs, accompanied by advertising matter are frowned upon by the Department as needlessly distracting the attention of drivers. The same is true of signs constructed in such a manner as to resemble in form or appearance the official markers.

Many signs on private property will disappear during the drive. The procedure to be followed is for the highway employe to inquire of property owners whether permission has been granted for the erection of such signs near the roadway. If not, workers will remove the signs. When permission has been granted and the signs are not within the legal right-of-way they cannot be disturbed.

The most noticeable improvement expected as a result of the campaign is removal of tattered, weather-beaten and neglected signs that have outlived the agreement under which they were originally placed. With co-operation of the property owners these will be pulled down and the blemishes removed.

Cardboard, cloth, tin, steel and wooden signs, commonly called "snipe" signs, are the center of the wholesale campaign to clean up the roadside. Every variety of unsightly daub and tattered blurb will fall before the army of highway workers.

Last year's drive against illegal and unsightly advertising resulted in removal of 32,000 signs.

Baby Sea Lion Will Not Go Near Water

ST. LOUIS, July 2.—At the St. Louis zoo, a baby sea lion, born on June 5, and one of the few ever born in captivity, refuses to enter water.

The baby sea lion almost drowned recently when it was placed in a shallow pool of water. Since then, it has refused to enter the water, squealing and scrambling toward land everytime it is put into the pool.

Another freak of nature is found in the actions of a Plymouth Rock hen, which has been denied normal satisfaction of the brooding instinct because of a penchant for breaking eggs, and has adopted four puppies.

At meal time the hen scratches the ground for them and appears puzzled when they turn up their noses at bits of grain. They have, however, eaten bran mash set out for other chickens.

Wingfield One Of Trio Who Made Nevada Liberal

Banker One Of Three Who Believes In Liberalism

By CAROL CROSS
International News Service Staff Correspondent

RENO, Nev., July 2.—In looking behind the scenes into the background of Nevada's liberalism, three personalities stand out above the scores of civic and political leaders who have contributed to the fame of Reno as a mecca for people from all over the world.

There is Governor Fred B. Balzar, who approved the wide open gambling and quick divorce laws. There is Mayor E. E. Roberts, the stormy former congressman-school teacher who sits in the mayor's chair in Reno and is ever willing to take the stump in support of licensed gambling and easy divorces or in condemnation of the national prohibition act.

And there is George Wingfield, president of a chain of banks, owner of fine hotels, regent of the University of Nevada, Republican national committeeman and maker of governors.

George Wingfield came into Nevada from Oregon in the 1890's "broke" and indifferent to the unprecedented success that later was to be his. But he went to Tonopah and Goldfield in the days when those camps were great sources of wealth. He became associated with the late Senator George S. Nixon, and from then until the present, his career is the story of a man who might have been characterized in the pages of the "Arabian Nights."

Nixon and Wingfield obtained control of the fabulously wealthy Mohawk mine at Goldfield. It earned millions. Today Wingfield's thoroughbreds are known on every race track in the continent. He is a power in state politics and is a political associate of the present governor.

He once declined an appointment to the United States Senate, offered him by Governor Tasker L. Oddie (now senator) when his friend and business partner, Senator Nixon, died.

He is the president of three banks in Reno alone and is the owner of the Riverside and Golden hotels here.

With large investments in all parts of the state, Wingfield wields a tremendous influence over state affair. His is a personal interest in Nevada, and he is one of the few who have become wealthy in the state who have remained here to be builders for the commonwealth.

He, like Mayor Roberts and Governor Balzar, is a liberal and he, like the others, has contributed greatly to Nevada's liberalism

RED AND WHITE ROSES

HARRISBURG, July 2—The five mile stretch along the Lincoln Highway between Lancaster and York, which was planted with red and white roses, symbolical of the two ancient English houses, was cited today by highway officials as an example of what roadside planting may accomplish. The entire stretch along both sides of the road recently has been a mass of colors.

Students To Plan New Grid Stadium

(International News Service)

RAPID CITY, S. D. July 2—Future mining engineers, training for their profession at the South Dakota School of Mines, have started work on a project which will test their abilities in practical engineering as well as giving their school a new athletic field.

About 400 students are converting a swamp into an up-to-date playground. The swamp, which is adjacent to the present football field, is being cleaned, drained, leveled and filled. The plans call for two football fields, one to be lighted for night games, tennis courts, an oval cinder track with a special straightaway for track meets, and possibly a hockey rink.

The scenic attractions of the field are to be enhanced by converting an old smelter into a semblance of a crumbling fortress. The broken lines of the walls, against a background of the Black Hills, will add a note of old-world grandeur.

When completed the field is to be named O'Harra stadium in honor of C. C. O'Harra, president of the school.

Coastguard Patrols Busy Watching New Residents Ashore

(International News Service)

NEW LONDON, Conn., July 2.—If it isn't one thing, it's another that keeps the coastguard forces here busy. The patrols are watching summer residents along the shore from Saybrook in Connecticut to points beyond Watch Hill, R. I., who find gifts of liquors laid at their very doors. One of the duties of the coastguardsmen is to collect the gifts.

Summer residents aren't engaged in the liquor business. Their gifts come in upon the rollers, bags and boxes of assorted wet goods that have been lost when some runner of liquors has gone down, or confinement thrown overboard when coastguard vessels have come too close for safety.

One boat, the El Sol, went down at Warren Point, R. I., last Februrary. The vessell kept her secrets to herself until lately. Seasonal storms disturbed the boat and her cargo began to work loose. Coastguard divers were sent over from New London and they salvaged 300 sacks of liquor before storms drove them away.

Soon after the divers quit, bags of liquor began to roll ashore from the approximate location of the El Sol. As if sensing what had happened coastguard boats appeared along the shore and their crews landed and began making collections from cottages from Watch Hill to Weekapaug.

Then there is the question of numerous new boat building concerns springing up all about New London. A quet investigation has been going on. Coastguard leaders say there is no doubt the boats are building for rum runners. An eye is being kept on the craft, deliveries of finished vessels are noted carefully.

All this led to coastguardsmen declaring that men anxious for fast boats are paying anywhere from $2,500 to $25,000 for finished products. The faster the boat, the higher the price. And payments are made in spot cash. Just where the plants are located is not being divulged but local residents say they know.

The coastguard received two new speed boats to add to the New London fleet late in June. They came up from Norfolk, Va., and went into service.

That the smugglers are active about all the time is attested by the noise and gun fire rattling up the harbor from the open Sound almost every morning—in the wee hours of the day. For a while New Londoners were rather disturbed by the noise. But they soon were used to it. Now a morning dawns with many people wondering whether they heard firing in the night, or just dreamed it, or perhaps it was distant thunder.

A slowly lengthening line of boats stands by the customs houses here, proof that both smugglers and coastguard forces have been active. The boats are trophies of a stern chase. But most of the seizures seem to be made in New York waters and the victims are here only a short time. They have to be taken down the Sound to New York, the place where justice is meted to those who violate the law 20 miles from London, but inside the boundaries of the state of New York.

Needy Family To Get Old Stove If Call Is Answered

Somewhere in some New Castle home today is a coal or oil stove standing idly by, which, if the City Rescue Mission had it, could be placed in the hands of an unfortunate family here that needs it badly.

Demands also come for children's shoes and clothing, but the stove need today is the greatest.

The Mission will provide delivery services to any who would make a donation. Call 430.

Sparks From New Castle Motor Club

While touring cars are slowing losing ground as the motorists turn more and more, to closed models roadsters registered a slight gain in public favor during 1930, according to Ralph W. Bolsinger, president of the New Castle Motor club, which is affiliated with the American Automobile association.

Mr. Bolsinger pointed out that touring cars comprised only 2.7 per cent of all types produced during 1930, as compared to 5.7 per cent in 1928. In the same period the percentage of roadsters produced increased from 5.5 per cent to 6.9 per cent.

"The gain in popularity of roadsters," the A. A. A. club executive said, "may be in part attributed to traffic conditions and the resultant demand for a light car on the part of two-car families."

Mr. Bolsinger declared that two-door sedans, coupes and all other closed cars accounted for 89.4 per cent of the production of automobiles in 1930 as compared to 85.7 per cent two years ago.

In 1919 only a little more than half of all cars produced—56.5 per cent to be exact—were closed models and the gain in favor of these types has been steady during the intervening period.

"The small number of touring cars built by the factories during 1930 were mainly on special order or purchase by families having more than one car."

CANADIAN TRAFFIC

Last year 2,272,193 American automobiles entered Canada at Bridgeburg and Niagara Falls; 356,087 Canadian cars visited us. No wonder our traffic is congested.

INSURE BEFORE YOU DRIVE

On December 31, 1930, there were 35,603,176 automobiles registered in the civilized and uncivilized countries of the globe. Of these, the United States had a total of 26,523,799 cars, or three-fourths of all those which were in operation at that time.

There were 24,766,985 passenger cars registered in the world, of which 22,951,847 were in the United States, 327,516 busses, of which 95,400 were in the United States, 5,508,647 trucks of which 3,476,532 were in the United States.

Other countries which have more than a million cars registered and their totals are:

Canada 1,224,166, France 1,459,650, England 1,308,272. In percentage of automobiles to population, only Canada, among the large countries approaches the United States. In the United States there is one automobile for each 4.6 inhabitants. Canada has one car for each eight residents, England one car for each 27 and France one for each 28.

Roadside emergency service, day or night, is an outstanding A. A. A. service.

THE EYES

Marvelous coordination of the three important functions of the eyes. Signals and safety devices are of little help to the motorists with poor vision.

TRUCK DRIVERS

Commercial vehicle operators not content, however, with what has been accomplished but, taking as a goal the remarkable results that have been achieved in the prevention of other industrial injuries, are making a new effort to understand what their accident problem is and what needs to be done about it.

BE READY TO STOP

Group studies are important if we are to know:

What type of accident occurs most frequently.

Where most accidents happen.

What actions of drivers are involved in most accidents.

What conditions of road, the weather, or light,, figure most prominently in accidents.

What personal injuries or property damage result from accidents.

What should be done to eliminate the cause.

What reductions have been made in outstanding causes.

Which employes are accident prone.

The legion of safe drivers grows larger. How does your record compare with others?

JULY 4TH

Every motorist who intends to tour during the coming holiday should take into consideration the heavy traffic and should therefore be exceedingly careful. Remember to have your registration card and operators license and to always carry extra lights bulbs with you. See that your license plates are clean and not obstructed and give due thought to the right of way, the other fellow may not be thinking.

Be particularly cautious about drinking water. If not marked "Safe" by the state of Pennsylvania do not risk drinking the water.

Herewith are some of the questions asked at examinations for operators' licenses. Can you answer them all correctly? The answers will be published in the next issue of the Motor Club Sparks.

What should you do if you change your address?

What is the law as to parking in the vicinity of a fire?

What does the law require you to do after injuring a person or property of another user of the highway?

When is it unlawful to pass a street car?

What is the penalty for giving or loaning registration plates to another person?

Test your knowledge of the motor law before reading the correct answers.

Try your brakes and see that your lights are working properly before starting on a trip.

An average of $40 for every man, woman and child is spent for travel.

Poor Director Sees Gardeners At Work

Unemployment Plots Expected To Yield Heavy Crop, Hogue Reports

County Poor Director Mansford B. Hogue, making a tour of inspection of the county's unemployment gardens, saw nearly 200 workers busy in four different districts on Wednesday.

At Bessemer the largest gardens were to be found, nearly 35 acres having been sub-divided there into 80 half-acre plots. Others were to be found at Hillsville, Edenburg and below Mahoningtown.

Mr. Hogue, who helped to provide a part of the garden necessities for the work, reported every indication points to an enormous crop at every place.

Broaddus College To Drop Football

Practices As Now Conducted Not In Harmony With Ideals, Trent Says

PHILIPPI, W. Va., July 2—There will be no intercollegiate football for Broaddus college in the future according to President W. W. Trent. Several reasons for the discontinuation of the sport were contained in the announcement.

According to the president "The tendencies and practices of intercollegiate football as now conducted are not in harmony with the ideals of our college."

Another factor in the discontinuation of the sport is said to have hinged on the expense of employing a coach and other costs incidental to the game.

The action to discontinue football was taken at a meeting of the board of trustees.

Baron, 30, Rich, Sighs, Wishing He Were Poor

Has No Desire For Anything Wealthy Belgain Asserts

(International News Service)

PARIS, July 2.—Baron Empain, thirty-year-old Belgian heir, one of the richest young men of the world says that he would give anything to be poor.

Visiting the French capital not long ago he declared that he is really only happy when in camp where nobody recognizes him. In Paris or Brussels the Baron cannot walk into a restaurant without the head waiter bowing him to the best table and inquiring about his health, and all that.

"The worst of it all is that I have no desire for anything," was the sad tale of the rich man. "It is terrible. If a friend wants a house I can buy it for him. If I want a million pounds cash for myself tomorrow I can have it. You see? It is really terrible."

He has given up gambling because he finds no fun in it. If he wins 4,000,000 francs it does him no good, he doesn't need a sou of it. If he loses, he is angry for several days afterward.

He reports the best time he ever had in life was when he quarreled with his father and came to Paris to live on ten dollars a month. He was a poor bank clerk. But at the end of the year his father forgave him.

The father of this poor little rich man amassed his gigantic fortune as a public works contractor and electrical engineer in Belgium, France and Egypt. The son is continuing his work and eight o'clock every morning finds him at his office, the director of sixty-five companies and chairman of twenty-five.

Mellow, mild tobaccos that need no parching

ANY tobacco expert will tell you that parching would ruin the flavor of the choice Turkish and mellow Domestic tobaccos of which Camel cigarettes are blended.

Heating to that extent is an emergency measure resorted to only as an attempt to take part of the bite and burn and sting out of harsh, strong tobaccos.

We do everything to bring you Camels in factory-fresh condition, preserving for your enjoyment the natural moisture together with the rich, rare flavor and aroma of those choice tobaccos.

That's why Camel smokers hold so persistently to Camels. They simply can't enjoy the stale, flat smoke from dried-out, moisture-robbed tobacco.

You see, every Camel package is now a humidor that excludes dust and germs and guarantees factory-fresh Camels to every smoker.

If you are not a Camel smoker, switch over for just one day. After you have discovered how mild, how cool they are to your throat, then leave them for stale hot smokes—if you can.

Don't remove the moisture-proof Cellophane from your package of Camels after you open it. The Humidor Pack is protection against sweat, dust and germs. It delivers fresh Camels and keeps them right until you smoke the last one

Noted Organist To Play On New Epworth Organ

New Castle music lovers will enjoy a great treat at the concert to be given on Monday, July 13th, at the new Epworth Methodist Episcopal church as a part of the Dedication Week services. The artists for that evening are Earl Mitchell, organist, of Pittsburgh, Pa., and Wilbur Evans, solcist of Philadelphia, Pa. The Epworth Church has been enabled to bring these artists to New Castle through the efforts of James Bortz, concert manager of Pittsburgh, who is a special friend of the pastor. Mr. Bortz says in a letter to Dr. Maxwell, "In all my concerts, I never had a greater pair to put on in Carnegie Music Hall than I am sending you. They cannot be excelled anywhere in America."

Mr. Mitchell is the organist of the Shady Side Presbyterian Church, and is known widely in this section. He is heard every Sunday afternoon over the radio in connection with Dr. Hugh Kerr's weekly services There is no greater organist in western Pennsylvania.

Mr. Evans came into national fame four years ago as the winner of the $5,000.00 award in the First National Radio Audition sponsored by the Atwater Rent Radio Foundation. The verdict of the judges at that time has been sustained by those who have heard this talented young artist in recital and radio work, as the possessor of an unusual voice of great resonance, color and range. These qualties, coupled with interpretive ability and magnetic stage presence, make him one of the most popular of the younger American baritones today.

Mr. Evans has appeared in recitals in the East, South, Mid-west, and on the Pacific Coast, always to the delight of his audience, besides singing many times on the famed Atwater Kent Sunday evening radio hour.

Seek Public Aid In Tracing Birds

HARRISBURG, July 2—The Game Commission today asked the cooperation of the public in an effort to assist the Federal government to record banded birds. At the present time over 1,000,000 wild birds wear bands.

By means of numbered aluminum bands on the legs of our native birds, an important investigation is being carried on by the Federal government. The purpose of this investigation is to learn how long birds live, what routes they travel in migration, how many miles they travel in a day, whether or not they return to the same locality, whether or not they keep the same mates, and many other interesting questions.

If you handle any game bird or find any other kind of bird, dead or alive, examine its legs for a band and read the number very carefully officials suggest. If the bird is alive leave the band on and release it, but make a written report of the number to the bureau of biological survey, Washington, D. C. or to the bureau of biological survey, Washington, D. C., or to the game commission at Harrisburg, who will see that this information is forwarded to the proper authorities. If the bird is dead remove the band and send it, together with all information possible, to the Bureau of Biological Survey, or the Game Commission

Famous German Slayer Is Put To Death Today

Peter Kuerten, "Ripper Murderer" Dies On Guillotine

MANY OF CRIMES ARE REVOLTING

(International News Service)

COLOGNE, Germany, July 2.—Peter Kuerten, the notorious "Dusseldorf ripper" murderer, died on the guillotine in the jail yard of the Cologne prison here at 6 a. m. today in expiation of his crimes.

About a score of murders, many of them children, were charged against Kuerten, and he confessed to most of them.

The execution was witnessed by about 20 officials, but newspapermen were barred.

Kuerten died as he lived—an enigma. Three priests remained in the death cell with him until he was led out to face the beheading knife. He spent his last hours writing letters to the families of his victims, asking their pardon for his crimes and the sufferings he had caused them. He assured them of his repentance.

Following his amazing confession of his crimes, which shocked even the hard-boiled German police officials, Kuerten became one of the quietest, model prisoners in the Cologne institution.

When asked if he had a last wish to request, he replied: "I have none."

Candidates Getting Nomination Papers

First Day On Which Names Can Be Secured Marked By Activity Of Office Aspirants

Many candidates for various county and city offices were at the county commissioners office today, securing nomination papers, this being the first day on which signatures could be obtained. Nearly all of the candidates who secured papers went to work at once to secure the required number of names.

It requires one hundred names on blanks for county offices and ten for city offices. The principal county offices are, treasurer, comissioner, prothonotary, coroner and auditor, and the principal city offices, mayor, and council. There will also be alderman in some wards and constables.

Candidates have now until August 10 in which to file their nomination papers, but many of them like to get them filed early and have it over with.

Candidates who file nomination papers and who wish to withdraw have until 4 p. m. on August 17th to take such action.

August 27th will be the first registration day in this city; September 1 the second day and September 12 the last registration day.

The primary election will be held on September 15.

Carpenter And Cawsey, Are First Two To Tee Off At Toledo, Course

(International News Service)

INVERNESS COUNTRY CLUB, Toledo, O., July 2.—Under a blazing sun which presaged one of the hottest days of the year, the 1931 national open golf championship was started here today with nearly 150 of the world's greatest stars competing for the title now in the possession of the retired Bobby Jones.

Precisely at 8:33 o'clock this morning, Hugh Carpenter, of Dallas, Texas, a slim chap in cream colored nickers, stepped up to his ball on the first tee and smacked it straight down the fairway, officially opening the golf classic of the season. A moment later his partner, Jack Cawsey, of Jacksonville, Fla., a stocky fellow in blue shirt and panama hat crashed another ball right down the middle. Cawsey's initial shot was a beauty and there was a mumur of applause from the standees at the first tee.

City Of New Castle To Provide $40,000 "Boot Price" To Government

Treser Intends To Carry Out Order

If Trees Are Not Trimmed By Owner City Will Do Work, Charge Owner

"I have made my last request concerning the trimming of trees," said Councilman Stanley Treser today in commenting on the reports that various trees hang so low that they interfere with pedestrians and operation of automobiles. "If owners do not trim trees speedily the city will and the cost will be charged to the property owner," Treser declared.

Sometime ago Treser issued a request to owners of trees to trim the trees. He stated that limbs must be eight feet above the sidewalk and 14 feet above the cartway.

Some tree owners recognize the courteous request but others have not, Treser declared, and for that reason he means to suit action to his words of warning.

Yesterday Was Hottest Yet, Records Show

Yesterday was the hottest day of the year, the official observations at the local U. S. Weather Station show.

The maximum temperature recorded during the day was 98 degrees, while last night, it only dropped to 72 degrees, one degree hotter than it was any night last year.

Weather Observer B. F. Johnson explained that the temperature might have been higher had there not been so much humidity in the air. When the relative humidity is high, the temperature is apt to be a degree or two less.

The temperature last night was the highest it has been in many years. Last summer, the highest reached was 71 degrees, which was equalled by the temperature, Tuesday night and Wednesday morning, but last night beat all records.

Certo is a pure fruit product —a concentrated fruit pectin. And pectin, you know, is the substance in fruits which makes jelly "jell." Certo is a product of General Foods Corporation. At all grocers.

By saving all the luscious fruit juices that used to boil away Mrs. Porter Luker, winner of 8 jelly and jam prizes at the 1930 Texas State Fair, gets 10 glasses of perfect jam from a basket of strawberries that used to give but 6.

93 RECIPES GIVEN:

Under the Certo label you will find 93 recipes. Each has been carefully worked out for use with Certo. Please remember that in making jam and jelly every fruit is different. Business Hero To Have Million Dollar Tribute

Elizur Wright Is Called The Father Of Modern Insurance

By HARRY BERGMAN
International News Service Staff Correspondent

CHICAGO, Ill., July 2. — Elizur Wright was neither soldier nor statesman. Yet, a million dollar memorial will soon be erected to honor his memory.

Elizur Wright was a hero of business. He is called "the father of modern insurance." And those who have thrived in the field which he pioneered now propose to build a monument to perpetuate his name.

Plans for the memorial were launched here at a meeting of the executive committee of the national convention of Insurance Commissioners. The executive committee appointed a board composed of four state insurance commissioners to study plans for the memorial project and submit a report to the annual convention to be held at Portland Ore., next September 14.

Several cities have made a bid for selection of the site for the monument, among them Boston, Washington and Des Moines, Iowa.

The planning board of state insurance commissioners is composed of Jess G. Reed, Oaklahoma; Charles D. Livingstone, Michigan; Dan C. Boney, North Carolina, and Merton L. Brown, Massachusetts.

Elizur Wright was the first insurance "agent" in history, the first commissioner of insurance to be appointed by law and the first actuary. He founded and battled in behalf of the legal reserve principle, which, perhaps more than any factor, stabilized the insurance industry.

A native of Massachusetts, Wright was born in 1804 and was active until the very last year of his life. He died at the age of 81.

After a prolonged and energetic campaign, Wright succeeded in influencing the Massachusetts state legislature to enact a statute requiring all insurance companies to establish cash reserves for the protection of their beneficiaries. It was the first law of its kind and was used as the model for similar legislation in many other states. The law was passed in 1858, two years before the outbreak of the Civil War.

The measure created a state insurance commission to enforce its provisions, the first legal body of its kind in history. Wright was appointed the first insurance commissioner.

In pointing to Wright's achievements the Insurance Commissioners' executive committee declared that no insurance company which has been compelled to observe the legal reserve principle has ever failed.

All 250,000 insurance workers in America will be called upon to subscribe to a fund to be used in the erection of the projected memorial. The executive committee is considering a proposal to form an Elizur Wright Memorial Association for the purpose of raising the required money.

During its recent meeting the executive committee also directed its attention to plans for the building of a special temporary monument to Wright as part of the World's Fair to be held in Chicago in 1933.

The growth of the insurance business since Wright's pioneering days, the executive committee pointed out, has been rapid and phenomenal. The resources of the business are estimated at 100 billion dollars, in the United States. In 1930 $20,000,000,000 in life insurance policies were written according to the organization's figures.

Death Punishment Restored In Italy

Solitary Confinement Abolished As New Penal Code Goes Into Effect

ROME, July 2.—Italy's new penal code, re-introducing the death penalty for murder and abolishing solitary confinement, went into effect Wednesday. Outdoor labor for prisoners is extended and prisoners are obliged to pay for their keep if able. Fines are based on the financial position of the defendants, within limits.

A new category of offenses is created, called "crimes against public economy," such as strikes and lockouts.

Previously the death penalty was exacted only for crimes against the head of the state.

The police do better in England because the people they work for aren't the same ones they work against.

OLDEST CIVIL WAR VET AT SENECA DIES

SENECA, Pa., July 2—Venango county's oldest Civil War veteran, M. V. Hartzell, 95, died at his home here today following a brief illness. He was born in Clarion county October 12, 1836, and was a resident of Seneca almost half century. He served with Company E Sixty second Regiment, Pennsylvania Volunteer Infantry during the war.

Make Hitch-Hikers Hike, Eynon Warns

Better Be Cussed Than Killed By 'Thumb Waggers,' He Warns

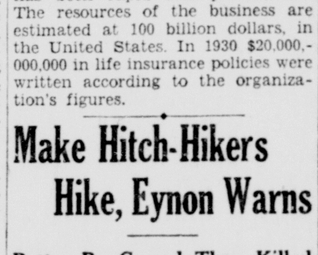

HARRISBURG, Pa., July 2.—Benjamin Eynon, Commissioner of Motor Vehicles, Wednesday advised motorists to take the "hitch" out of "hitchhiker."

"Let the hitch-hiker hike," Eynon said. 'It's better to be cussed for not stopping than murdered."

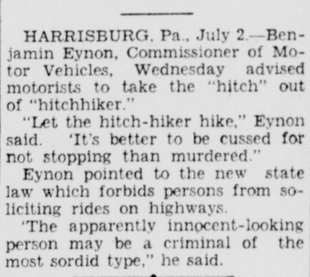

Eynon pointed to the new state law which forbids persons from soliciting rides on highways.

'The apparently innocent-looking person may be a criminal of the most sordid type," he said.

Man Discards His Clothes, Arrested After Long Chase

The peaceful village of Newport on the New Castle-Wampum road near Wampum was thrown into great excitement this morning by the spectacle of a man, minus his clothing, running about the cement highway, shouting at motorists, and running from groups of men organized by the Wampum constable who finally arrested him.

Taken to New Castle shortly before noon today by Constable John B. Martin of Wampum, the man who threw away his clothes said he was R. M. Biddle, 39, formerly of the vicinity of Pulaski, according to word from the sheriff's office.

A commission to inquire into the sanity of the prisoner was to be named today. At present Biddle is being held on a charge of disorderly conduct.

According to resident of Newport, the man who caused all the excitement first appeared in the town at the height of the warm wave, arriving as a passenger in a truck that was bound to New Castle via the New Castle-Wampum road.

He was well dressed. He wore a well-fitting brown suit, oxfords and a straw hat. When the truck left he started to walk to New Castle. He approached a Newport home, that of Mrs. May Loughran and asked for some water. When he drank some he suddenly let out several exclamations and appeared crazed. Mrs. Loughran ran into the house and locked the door.

Then the man went on the main cement highway and quickly began to take off his clothes, apparently to obtain relief from the heat.

While in his nude state he stopped some automobiles, according to eyewitnesses. He received a leg injury when struck by one machine.

The man is reported to have stopped a machine containing several women. The machine continued on its way when the passengers viewed the nude figure on the road.

By this time the constable of Wampum was called by excited residents of Newport.

When Constable Martin arrived the man was running about the tracks of the P. & L. E. at Newport. A posse was quickly formed and men started the chase. The nude man was caught once, but escaped the men.

After the constable succeeded in holding him a pair of trousers were quickly obtained and Biddle was taken quickly to the county jail. He sustained a severe injury on his left thigh.

Second Monster Locomotive Due To Arrive Today

Four More Giant Engines To Pass Over Pennsy Lines Enroute To West

The second of six huge Western Pacific railroad locomotives to be started from the Baldwin Locomotive works, near Philadelphia, for a destination in Utah, will pass thru here over the Erie branch of the Pennsylvania railroad this afternoon it was announced today.

Railroad officials estimated the monster engine would likely arrive at 4 o'clock, but announced no definite hour.

The engine is being relayed, like the first on Sunday, from the Renovo division line at Erie to the Eastern division lines at Homewood Junction, south of here.

Five other locomotives of the same type are to be delivered from the Baldwin shops to the west.

Deputies To Guard Company Properties

Termination Of Coal And Iron Police System Effects Local Mills

With the abolition of the coal and iron police system in Pennsylvania which ended yesterday, Lawrence county industrial plants which have used mill police under that system are now without commissioned guards.

Sheriff Frank Johnston has already received one request to furnish deputy sheriffs to replace the former police watchmen and it is likely that others will be received soon. It is understood that deputies employed as guards about a plant are to be paid by the companies asking for their appointment.

In Allegheny county the sheriff has sent to companies asking for deputies a form of agreement, which it is presumed will be followed by other counties. This states that the appointees are deputized only as property guards. They are not to function off the property of the companies.

The rules say, first, deputies may arrest persons charged with an offense against the laws of the commonwealth upon a warrant issued by any magistrate.

Second: Deputies will also arrest, without warrant, any person guilty of disordly conduct or caught in the act of committing any misdemeanor or felony upon the property of the company.

Third: Guard payrolls of the company while in transit.

Catches 10 Bass And Two Red-Horse

George Joseph, West Washington street, yesterday caught 10 bass, one of which was 17 inches long, and also two red horse. Joseph made his catch at Big Bend in the Shenango river, Mercer county. He displayed the fish today.

ICE MEN HERE HAVE 20-DEGREE WEATHER AS OTHERS SWELTER

Envy the ice makers of the Lawrence Ice and Storage Company who turn out about 17 tons of ice daily in the Grant and Beaver street plants of the company and delight in working in a temperature of 20 degrees while the rest of the city swelters!

H. A. Rugh, the manager of the ice plants says, however, that when the ice makers leave their cool buildings and get into the street they feel the heat considerably more than the person who has to endure the sun all day.

Working in an ice plant is not all that it's cracked up to be. In the boiler room the temperature is about 120

Only One House Permit In June

Building activities for the month of June were slow, according to reports compiled by Neil Williams, clerk, city bureau of building. Only one dwelling permit was granted. The house, according to an estimate, will cost $6,000. New construction, it is anticipated, cost $9,310 and remodelling and repairs $5,440.

Permits granted cover the following construction: one house, eight garages, one storeroom, three small buildings, two fences and one small service station. Repairs and remodelling occurred at 11 residences and two buildings.

Teaching Contracts Require Notice Of 60 Days To Change

Assistant Supt. C. F. Ball Calls Attention To Revision Of School Code

Contracts for school teachers for the school year of 1931-32 must contain a clause providing for a notice 60 days before the close of the school term if either party, teacher or board of directors, desires to terminate the contract, it was pointed out today by Assistant County Superintendent C. F. Ball. This provision is made in the revised school code, as determined by the last legislature.

Heretofore notice was only required to be given by teacher or board of directors by the last day of the school term.

Another change in the school code was pointed out by Mr. Ball. School boards may no longer reduce the period of compulsory attendance. Heretofore in fourth class districts, embracing townships, boards could reduce the terms for those over fourteen to as low as 70 per cent of the entire term.

The revised code also provides for the future that all auditors file a copy of the audit of school accounts with the department of public instruction by registered mail upon the completion of the audit.

Contagion Here Held At Low Tide

Contagion in the city of New Castle during the month of June was held at low tide as only 20 cases were recorded with the bureau of health, according to a perusal of the health records.

During the last few days of June health authorities tested water and milk. Several wells and springs have been closed and the campaign is still under way.

Vast System Of Industry Farms New Food Project

Will Attempt To Raise Industrial Commodities From Plants

By WILLIAM J. BUTLER
International News Service Special Correspondent.

YPSILANTI, Mich., July 2.—A gigantic system of industrial farms, in the midst of which will be numerous large factories to manufacture automobile materials and other industrial commodities from vegetables and farm produce, is being constructed here. Behind the project, which will involve millions of dollars, are the Henry Ford billions.

The first factory in the mammoth scheme is to be erected on the site of the old United States Pressed Steel plant on the Huron river. It already has been purchased and torn down by Ford. It will manufacture auto dyes, paints, textiles and wheels, the latter to be produced from straw.

More than 200 workmen are now busy on the Huron river site and on Ford farms which extend for miles along the water course. William Boutell, sphinx-like young ex-soldier is in charge of the work

Boutell and all other emlpoyes refused any information whatever concerning the ultimate plans. It was pointed out that five years ago, after purchasing hundreds of acres in and around Ypsilanti for his broad experiments to improve farming by joining it with industry, Ford abandoned the project because of the activities of real estate dealers in sending adjoining land prices sky-high.

To prevent a recurrence of this, the utmost secrecy is stressed in all work. It is understood that one of the major developments, in addition to factories here and at Rawlinsville, will be the erection of a large dam in the river to supply water power.

Realizing that the farmer at present is raising food only, Ford is experimenting to better the farmer's lot by creating new markets for his surplus produce. Behind the plan, too, may be the experiment to produce cheaper automotive materials.

Already Ford chemists have discovered how to make fibers for upholstery out of farm products and steering wheels out of straw and sawdust. In addition, the plans would find a remedy for the plethora of labor now suffered by the farmer because of seasons. They include establishment of factories at 20-mile intervals in agricultural districts where workers who are busy outdoors on Ford farms during the summer may find profitable work in the winter months when farm labor slackens.

Although all labor in industry and on farms could not be seasonally shifted in this manner, Ford is understood to believe that a large part of it could be and that part might well be employed. It represents, he thinks, the seasonal surplus which often causes economic distress.

Farm produce to be raised on Ford's experimental 3,000-acre farm in Lenawee county may be converted into industrial raw materials in factories near here. Later, however, it is probable that plants will be built nearer the source of supply, putting every farmer-worker within easy driving distance of a factory.

Though the scheme is still in its infancy, it is rapidly taking shape. It will require years before the dream project becomes a reality.

Tells How To Locate Swallowed Articles

(International News Service)

LOS ANGELES, July 2.—Removal of safety pins, marbles, beans, toothpicks, matches, pins, thimbles, needles, buttons, coins and other odds and ends so often swallowed and lodged in the lungs and bronchial tubes, is a comparatively simple operation once the objects are located, according to Dr. Franz Haslinger of Vienna, who was a visitor here. He is an authority on delicate operations of this nature.

X-ray pictures often prove useless in searching for swallowed objects, Dr. Haslinger said. Other symptoms are sought to determine the location of the foreign articles. Difficulty in breathing, incorrect reaction of a lung, displacement of the heart or wrong alignment of the trachea often will enable the physician or surgeon to locate the lost objects, he said.

Star Lore

A SUMMER THUNDER STORM IN THE COUNTRY

By Arthur DeV. Carpenter

A hot, humid afternoon; air unusually quiet all day, with occasional faint breeze from the south; lofty cirrus (hair-like) clouds develop, many of them becoming ciro-cumulus (piled up) clouds. Toward middle afternoon these cirro-cumulus clouds convert into cumulo-nimbus (rain) clouds. Threatening thunder growls in the west; in an hour's time blackness gathers; cool wind blows violently toward you from front of the angry, on-rushing elements; dust flies; tree-tops whip over; big patters of rain—or perhaps hail—come down; you are now under the violent squall cloud; the storm front sweeps over; powerful flash, crash and downpour mingle; storm journeys on; thunder grows remote; nature refreshed; a rainbow; solo of timid thrush resounds from thicket.

Surely out of the thousands of baccalaureates issued during the last few weeks we ought to discover some way to cure the depression.—The Worcester Telegram.

Many Women In Benefit Pageant

(International News Service)

CHICAGO, July 2.—More than 25,000 women are expected to attend the international convention of the Woman's Benefit association which will be held in Chicago July 20 to 25. Delegations from every state in the union and every province in Canada and Hawaii are expected to attend the session.

A jubilee pageant will be presented in Soldier field on the night of July 22 in which 11,000 women will participate. The pageant, which will take more than two hours to pass in review, will be witnessed by Governor Emmerson of Illinois, Governor Brucker of Michigan, Mayor Anton J. Cermak and other officials.

Say Fourth Should Really Be On Second

WASHINGTON, July 2.—July 2 and not July 4 is really the day we should celebrate as Independence Day, according to the George Washington Bi-Centennial Commission.

The commission points out that the Continental Congress in 1776, voted American independence two days before the date generally recognized and observed as the day the United States broke away from British rule.

It is trying to revive the custom of making it a three day holiday July 2-3-4 instead of just the fourth. They point out it would be fitting to honor the father of our country this year and especially next year, when the 200th anniversary of his birth is celebrated by urging Congress to inaugurate a suspension of government departments and business houses for the three-day period instead of one.

The First History Of The Church

"Brass Tacks" On The Sunday School Lesson

The Golden Text

"Ye shall receive power, after that the Holy Ghost is come upon you: and ye shall be witnesses unto me both in Jerusalem and in all Judea, and in Samaria, and unto the uttermost part of the earth. —Acts 1:8.

Dr. ALVIN E. BELL

Inasmuch as our lessons for the next three months are taken from the book of the Acts of the Apostles it is well to get a "bird's-eye view" of this entire book. Accordingly, the following is quoted with the publishers' permission from the author's book, "The Gist of the Bible Book by Book." (Copyright by Alvin E. Bell, Toledo, O.)

"The Acts of the Apostles" might more properly be named "The Acts of the Ascended Christ" or "The Acts of the Holy Spirit Through the Church." Its 71 references to the Holy Spirit almost entitle it to be named "The Gospel of the Holy Spirit." It records the history of the early Christian church from the the ascension of Christ to the imprisonment, of Paul in Rome about 30 years later. St. Luke, in his gospel, had recounted "what Jesus began both to do and to teach until the day in which he was taken up." Here in the Acts he recounts what Jesus continued both to do and teach after his ascension.

The Keynote

"Chapter 1, verse 8, gives us not only the keynotes of the entire book, but indicates its plan and outline as well: "Ye shall receive power, after that the Holy Ghost is come upon you: and he shall be witnesses to me both in Jerusalm, and in all Judea, and in Samaria, and unto the uttermost part of the earth.' Chapters 1 and 2 tell of the reception of the promised power on the Day of Pentecost; the witness in Jerusalem is recorded in 3:1 to 6:7; the witness in Judea in 6:8 to 8:3; the witness in Samaria in 8:4 to 8:40; and the witness "to the uttermost part of the earth in chapters 9 to 28.

"The two chief witnesses in this book are Peter and Paul, the first 12 chapters being given chiefly to the witness of Peter in and about Perusalem, the last 16 chapters dealing with the witness of Paul unto the uttermost part of the earth.' In the Peterine section of the church is seen developing under the guidance of the Holy Spirit from a pronouncedly Jewish sect into a broad cosmopolitan body where all racial distinctions are obliterated. In the Pauline section the church becomes predominately gentle in its spirit and membership through the fiery zeal and ceaseless activity of Paul, the great missionary and apostle to the gentiles, whose three great missionary journies are here recorded.

The Church Spreads

"The Acts records how the conviction of the resurrection of Christ and the coming of the Holy Spirit transformed Peter, the cowardly denier, into the courageous pentecostal preacher, and Saul of Tarsus, the church's chief persecutor, into Paul its chief apostle and missionary. By such spirit-filled witnesses the church spread out, as Christ commanded that it should, from Jerusalem, its birthplace, to Samaria to break down an ancient prejudice, and on to Ephesus to purify it of the vulgarities of Diana, thence over into Europe to Athens and Corinth to supplant a decaying Greek culture with the nobler culture of the Christian ethic, and finally even to Rome, the center of world power.

"Thus the Lord added to the church daily as should be saved." not only individuals, but nations, until, as his enemies charged, his disciples had "turned the world upside down." And all this they did against terrific persecutiion. "The blood of the martyrs became the seed of the church," verifying the promise of the great Head of the Church that the gates of hell should not prevail against His church.

BIBLE MIRACLE EVIDENCE FOUND

Scientist Corroborates Events Described In Bible

LONDON, July 2. — Material evidence of two of the most spectacular miracles of the Bible has been gathered by British archeologists, according to messages from Palestine.

Professor John Garstang, leader of the Jericho expedition financed by Sir Charles Marston, has reported that the collapse of the walls of Jericho before the Jewish hosts under Josua was apparently due to an earthquake. He based his theory upon the discovery that the walls of the city had fallen outward in places in a manner which suggested seismic disturbances.

The same natural phenomenon accounts for the drying up of the Jerdan for the Jews to cross, he believes. The expedition, he says, has gathered evidence that the clay banks of the river caved in near El Damieh at about the period described in the Bible.

Sir Charles Marston, who has financed three expeditions to confirm the authenticity of Bible records, believes this naturalistic explanation of the miracles really corroborates the biblical description.

Family Album Big Police Aid Says State Chief

Proves Big Benefit In Locating Missing Persons

By ARTHUR B. DONEGAN
International News Service Staff Correspondent

HARRISBURG, Pa., July 2. — Revival of the family photograph album, discontinued with other customs of the "Gay Nineties" and succeeding days, is urged by Major Lynn G. Adams, superintendent of the Pennsylvania State Police.

Keeping of a family album, Major Adams points out, is a valuable aid to authorities in seeking missing persons, and inability of police to secure good photographs or fingerprints of such persons has led to many an unnecessary burial in a Potter's field.

"Family photographs," says Major Adams, "serve the best purpose when persons are reported missing. Photographs and fingerprints of criminals usually are obtained as the result of prior arrests, but when 'John Doe' or his daughter disappear from home, police are unable to obtain reliable descriptions.

"Only those with long experience in such cases can appreciate the inability of relatives and friends to furnish reliable descriptions of missing persons. Those who have lived daily with the missing person are often unable accurately to describe the color of hair or eyes for the benefit of authorities.

"A good photograph of the missing persons is the best and easiest way of putting authorities on the alert.

"A brunette weighing about 115 pounds with several gold fillings in her teeth, the Pennsylvania state police head points out, is rather inadequate as a description of which police are expected to base discovery of a missing girl. And many descriptions, coming from immediate relatives, are just that comprehensive.

"Imagine police in Philadelphia, or New York, or Chicago of Pittsburgh or any large city finding a missing person on the strength of such a description," Major Adams commented.

Descriptions of clothes worn by missing persons, he says, are also of little value unless the missing intended to commit suicide. Those who leave home with carefully laid plans are seldom found wearing the clothes in which they left, he declared.

"The family album may have been the butt of a thousand jokes," Major Adams said, "but it served a useful purpose just the same. And if more of them were kept, fewer missing persons would go down in police lists with that explanation attached to their cases."

PIGEON HITCH-HIKED
(International News Service)

AKRON, O.—Mankind's envy of the bird's ability to soar through the air at will was reversed here when a hitch-hiking pigeon landed on the blimp Pilgrim and refused to leave its perch until the ground crew dragged the ship into the hangar. The bird had about an eight mile trip.

MY NEW YORK

By JAMES ASWELL

Central Press

NEW YORK, July 2.—A young couple I know lived for a year in an apartment whose bedroom windows commanded a close-up view of the Chrysler Building spire. They saw it the first thing in the morning and at night they used to stand and watch the shifting moods of that silvery, gargoyle-studded finger in the sky. They became responsive to its moods; when the pile was lowering in fog or rain, it made them sad.

Then they moved. From their new home they could see the Empire State's hundred stories of clean, new stone very clearly. It was only a short half mile away.

The youthful husband snook his head today and sighed. "I'm going out and take a stroll over toward Grand Central. I want to see how the Chrysler building is getting along. We miss it, you know. The Empire State is such a perfect stranger—so raw and new—it makes us feel like pulling down the shades!"

DESTINY STREET.

The other day I mentioned the amazing coterie of famous folks who were young together in 116th St. That's not the only thoroughfare which has fledged fame in quantity. There's 144th St.

George Gershwin, Ad Carter, Billie Dove, Irving Cummings and Harold Vicars were youngsters who called brownstones along 144th Street home.

Incidentally, Gershwin wrote his first big smash, "Swanee," in an hour and a half. Irving Caesar, the composer, gave him the title riding up Riverside Drive on a bus. George went home and dashed off the tune which made him a big shot. He was so busy as a kid that he didn't know until a few weeks ago that those other famous people grew up a stone's toss from his house.

However, George did know Harold Vicars, who wrote the "Song of Songs." They were firm pals always and decided around 16 to go out and panic the world musically. They did.

Billie Dove was an artist's model after school and then was Glorified in the Follies. She amazed other actresses by refusing to use makeup. But she had to relent when she went into the movies.

SHOP TALK BARRED.

"Bugs" Baer tells an amusing story of a dinner he attended in San Francisco ten years ago, at which were most of the noted humorists of the land—and upon all of them there descended a pall of decorum and solemnity. Not one verbal spark flew from the assembled wits.

They dined in cautious sobriety and went home. The reason: They didn't want to "talk shop!"

Some of the luminaries present were Irvin S. Cobb, Riley Wilson, Kin Hubbard, Ring Lardner, Walter Kelly, Frank Ward O'Malley and Samuel G. Blythe. And "Bugs" of course.

NEW YORK AT PLAY

East Hampton, Long Island, first basked in the reflected glory of Southampton as a society rendezvous and later became the place out that way. Then the literary bigwags took to it—people like Percy Hammond, Ring Lardner, Scott Fitzgerald and Irvin Cobb. Now, since Arthur William Brown, the Saturday Evening Post illustrator, located there, he has been followed by McClelland Barclay, Russell Patterson, James Montgomery Flagg and their tribe. Although the writers got in as a nice contrast element, the trek of the artists is occasioning some eyebrow-twitching in the hilltop mansions of Oldest Residents. Is their sacred ground going Bohemia?

CURE-ALL BUDGET
(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA—The American public will spend $200,000,000 for patent medicines in 1931, despite the business depression, predicts Dr. Arthur M. Cramp, director of the bureau of Investigation of the American Medical Association. Out of every dollar spent for patent medicines, the maker expends 60 cents to further convince the public there is something wrong with them, declared Dr. Cramp, and the public is being convinced.

Youth Suffers Peculiar Injury At Baseball Game

Catcher's Spiked Shoe Inflicts Wound On Side Of Spectator's Head

While sitting along the sidelines at the North Highland baseball grounds last evening, while a game was in progress between North Highland and the Scarazzos, Charles Francis, aged seven years, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Francis of 218 Edgewood avenue, suffered a severe injury.

The accident in which the little fellow was hurt was one of the most peculiar ever observed.

Along with many other spectators, Charles was sitting back from the foul line stretching between the home plate and third base. One of the players on the North Highland team popped up a high foul fly directly behind the group of spectators, and the Scarazzo catcher dashed into the crowd in an attempt to catch it.

Some of the spectators were able to rise to their feet and get out of the way, while others were upset in the scramble. The catcher in dashing through the crowd, struck the Francis boy along side of the head with the spikes on his shoes, inflicting a deep gash.

The injured lad was taken to a physician where his injuries were dressed and no serious consequences are expected.

Judge Praises Wife Spanking

PHILADELPHIA, July 2.—An old-fashioned spanking for petulant, fault-finding wives is advocated by Judge Harry S. McDevitt, of the Court of Common Pleas, who characterizes the "paddle" as a good remedy for the divorce evil. He said:

"A good spanking is a sure cure for nagging, childish wives—it proves a man is boss in his own home.

"I have no doubt a woman respects a man more when he proves he is the master. It's the worst thing in the world to let a woman wear the trousers in the home. By trousers I mean good old-fashioned pants—not knickers."

Judge McDevitt added that by spanking he did not mean a "punch in the jaw, but just a little chastisements, when the wife needs it."

Petrified Shaft Draws People Of Whole World

Many Foreign Counties Send Representatives To Arizona

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, July 2. — Visitors from 21 foreign countries registered at the Petrified National monument in Arizona this year, the director of the National park service of the Department of Interior announced.

The foreign countries represented were: Australia, Austria, Canada, Czecho-Slovakia, Denmark, England, France, Germany, India, Indo-China, Ireland, Italy, Japan, New Zealand, Norway, Poland, Singapore, Spain, Sweden, Switzerland, and Venezuela.

Visitors from every state in the United States, and the District of Columbia also registered.

The petrified forest national monument is an eroded deposit of petrified logs said by scientists to be nearly two hundred million years old. Many of the petrified tree trunks are more than 100 feet in length, indicating some of them attained a height of more than 200 feet.

Many queer and interesting features of this ancient deposit of great tree trunks, cross sections of which reveal every color in the rainbow, have been uncovered by the work of erosion. One petrified log, originally embedded in sandstone, forms a natural bridge, erosion having scooped out a small arroyo under the log. One of the three divisions of the area is called "Rainbow Forest," and chips of agate, onyx, carnelian and Jasper are scattered over the ground.

Dr. Albert, Einstein, the German scientist, who visited the monument on his recent trip to the Pacific coast, manifested great interest in this ancient deposit of petrified drift logs.

Boys Build Dam Along Big Run

Swimming Hole Is Provided For Scores Down On South Side

So that they may enjoy swimming during these summer hot days a group of young boys of the south side have again built a dam on Big Run creek near Pennsylvania avenue and for the past week or so the home made swimmin' hole has been the mecca of hundreds of bathers.

Before erecting the dam the boys cleaned the bottom of the creek to assure safety. The boys contemplate building a diving board. The idea of the building of a dam arose last summer when several young boys constructed a dam.

Throughout last summer the pool was filled with bathers. During the winter the dam was washed away and the boys were confronted with the task of building another dam at the start of the summer.

The dam is built of stones and sand. Sacks are filled with stones and dirt and placed across the dam. The boys clean the pool out oy an opening in the middle of the dam every week.

LOCKJAW DEVELOPS FROM NAIL IN FOOT

UNIONTOWN, Pa., July 2—Lockjaw developing from a rusty nail wound in the foot today resulted in the death of James M. Proctor of Fairmont, W. Va., who for the last week had been visiting at the home of his niece, Mrs. William Johns. While working around the outside of the house, Mr. Proctor was injured but paid little attention to the wound until it was too late.

Draws Jail Term As Verdict Dodger

BEAVER, Pa., July 2.—Found by Judge Reader, in an opinion, to have "secreted property" by transferring an auto to his wife to avoid payment of $1,000 verdict, J. E. Phelps, 35, Beaver, was given 60 days in jail.

Court records show Mrs. Georgia White, East Liverpool, O., was given a verdict May 2 against Phelps for injuries in an auto accident last July. Phelps claimed inability to pay.

DIES IN POOL

BEAVER FALLS, Pa., July 2.—Acute dilation of the heart as he dove into a swimming pool near here and failed to come up caused the death of Anthony Fabrig, 20, of College Hill, a coroner's autopsy had shown today. Lifeguards recovered his body on the floor of the pool.

WORKER FATALLY HURT

(International News Service)

DONORA, Pa., July 2.—Anthony Kidzinski, 53, mill worker, was fatally hurt while working in the wire mill of the Donora plant of the American Steel & Wire company, a coroner's report today showed. He left a wife and three children.

Seismograph, Home-Made, Is Science Mystery

Gives Accurate Resistration Of Recent Earth Shocks

(International News Service)

BELLAIRE, O., July 2. — A crude seismograph, consisting of nothing more than a butcher's steel used for sharpening knives, which hangs on a nail driven into a heavy post imbedded into the earth, has been beating college and government stations in detecting earthquakes and has aroused scientists of this state who are unable to explain its workings.

Discovered quite by accident in the home of Mrs. Charles Bickmeier, the steel has given accurate registrations of several recent quakes. Although unable to register the vicinity of a quake, the "seismograph" always swings and jingles against the pillar at the first tremor.

Attempts to make the steel swing by shaking the house have proven fruitless. Even the blast of a stick of dynamite near the home failed to budge the steel. Yet, when New Zealand was rocked by a tragic quake this year, the "seismograph" registered a series of distinct shocks several hours before the quake was reported from college instruments.

Those who have investigated the phenomenon explain a possible solution in that the Bickmeier home is situated on the top of a high hill, perhaps a huge rock extending far into the earth. Any vibration of the earth, under these conditions, it is said, would cause a vibration of the rock which in turn would cause the pillar to vibrate.

Plan Museum For College Building

Relics And Antiques Being Assembled At Grove City College

GROVE CITY, July 2—A room for exhibit of the many relics and antiques of the Grove City College museum now being assembled will be provided in one of the college buildings at once states college authorities today following the joining of the Pennsylvania school museum association on the part of the school. Only schools that have in their curriculum a course in visual education can be members of this organization which has the backing of the Carnegie Endowment, Commercial Museum of Philadelphia and the University of Pennsylvania Museum.

Writing and paper is the theme of 1931 collections of the museums.

Every conceivable form of writing from the clay tablets of the Babylonians to modern writing have arrived at the college here from the distribution point for the museum.

The hieroglyphics of the Egyptians, papyrus of later tribes, skins, leather and other mediums of written thought have all arrived.

Tree bark with the most interesting of Indian legends makes the collection American.

The museums will be supported by the state legislature, three organizers and the 20 schools that are included in the membership. The state is interested because they have insisted on a course in visual education.

NAME BUILDING

"Hall of Science" is the name selected for the new science hall of Grove City College by the trio of trustees selected for this purpose.

The committee members are John D. Meyer, Wilson Campbell and W. H. Burchfield of Pittsburgh.

The building of one of two new structures now building that will be dedicated at the program of events for the school to occur this fall.

DELAY IS SEEN

Several months will elapse before the Grove City postoffice will be in construction is the opinion expressed here today by Postmaster O. H. Firm.

The deed for the lot on Pine St. purchased by the government must be signed by Miss Bess Craig one of the heirs of the late Captain R. C. Craig her father. Her location at a mission school in Siam means some delay in forwarding and returning deed. The fact that following this transaction the government allows 60 days for removal of owners adds to this in time.

PLAN BOND ISSUE

The directors of the Grove City Country Club have authorized a $25,000 bond issue. Announcement is made today that the bonds will be of $100 denomination paying six percent and maturing in 15 years, first mortgage.

The issue is reported as a change in financing only. The club now has a membership of 135 and is announced in splendid condition.

World's Deepest Hole Is Drilled

Geologists Penetrate Mother Earth 10,000 Feet Despite Recent Drop Of Oil Prices And Look Forward To Tapping Vast Reservoirs Four Miles Below Surface

By Central Press

LOS ANGELES, Cal. July 2.—Down 10,000 feet (nearly two miles) below the surface of the earth man has dropped a drill in quest of oil. It is said to be the deepest hole in the world.

Although oil prices have dropped more than 50 per cent in the last few months, several wells have been sunk to levels geologists 10 years ago would have thought impossible.

9,700 Feet Below!

In the latest of these, Williams No. 1, on the west side of the San Joaquin valley, a string of powerful drill pipes turned a bit 9,700 feet below.

When the bit in Williams No. 1 had reached the 9,600-foot level, it stood in a column of mud over a mile deep. The mud served to plaster the walls so that in most formations drilling could be continued without inserting a casing.

Sometimes, in drilling wells two miles deep for oil, accidents befall the drill tools or the sides cave in.

Quite A Mixture

One well, drilled near here, lost its mud circulation during deep drilling, and to regain this drillers mixed with the fluid mud, and dropped into the hole, 62,000 pounds of aguagel, 580 tons of dry mud, 650 sacks of cement, 6,300 pounds of fissure sealing compound, 660 acks of cotton seed hulls, 781 sacks of sawdust and 23 bales of hay.

This material, after having been forced down inside the drill pipe, flowed up outside the drill pipe and virtually "cemented" the walls.

When the Bit Breaks

In drilling one hole the bit twisted off 9,000 feet below the surface. It had made only two feet in two days before the accident occurred. Down went, fishing tools, and after many days, and with much expense, the lost bit was brought to the surface.

Geologists in the west are looking forward to the time when they will be drilling oil wells from three to four miles deep, tapping vast oil reservoirs far below the present fields.

GIGANTIC SAURIAN

(International News Service)

BERLIN, July 2.—One leg of a gigantic saurian whose bones were excavated in East Africa, near Mount Kilimanjaro, in the years 1911 to 1914, has been reconstructed in the Berlin Museum of Natural History. The upper bone of the foreleg measures over five and one-third feet in length, or more than twice as long as any other saurian ever discovered.

Lost Continent Believed Rising From The Ocean

Two New Islands Are Discovered Off Brazilian Coast

RIO JANEIRO, July 2. — The possibility that the two new islands discovered recently off the Brazilian coast might be the beginning of a re-emergence of the lost continent of Atlantis was the subject of a discussion between scientists in newspapers today.

Confirmation of the appearance of the two new islands was brought here by the Dutch steamship Zeelandia and the German steamship General San Martin, from Europe.

The commanders of both vessels reported sighting the islands in the direct route of navigation from Europe to Brazil. They lie near the islands of St. Peter and St. Paul, and constitute a menace to shipping, authorities here believe.

The Ministry of Marine plans to send a cruiser to inspect the islands within the next few days. In the meantime a report of their location has been issued as a warning to navigators. Their location has been recorded on naval charts here, but they will be officially declared to exist only after the visit of the cruiser.

The chief hydrographic expert of the Brazilian navy agrees with other experts that the islands are of volcanic origin, but why the seismographs of Brazil and other countries apparently failed to record the action which produced them was considered puzzling.

The islands lie entirely outside Brazilian waters and are subject to claim by any nation, in the opinion of experts here.

Akron Airport Radio Directed Is Present Aim

Airport Manager Considers Method Of Communication

(International News Service)

AKRON, O., July 2.—Plans to control Akron's municipal airport entirely with radio, the firts attempt of its kind in the world, are being considered by B. E. Fulton, airport manager.

Portable broadcasting and receiving sets, having a weight of less than 10 pounds may keep all parts of the 900-acre field and the sky above in communication, if Fulton's plan materialize.

The airport manager is being aided in his preparations by Lieutenant Commander Charles E. Rosendahl of the new Navy dirigible, the Akron, and engineers from the Radio Corporation of America.

The broadcast equipped, according to Fulton, could be carried in the airport automobile or strapped to the back of an operations' officer. His orders then could be broadcast to the large receiving station in the Administration Building and rebroadcast on a loud speaker system or placed on the air.

Such a system would help greatly in handling the giant dirigible on trial flights, where a large scattered ground crew will be used, Fulton pointed out. He also believes it would facilitate moving traffic on roads surrounding the airport area and could be used by the port operations officer to instruct incoming radio-equipped planes.

Fulton said he planned to finance the equipment from the receipts from the parking lot, which nets more than $1,000 a week owing the large number of visitors at the dirigible hangar.

Poodles Hanneford Is Ranking Riding Clown

England has produced innumerable famous circus acts, but no troupe has ever met with greater favor in America than Poodles Hanneford and the Original Hanneford family. Poodles was a sensation following his debut in New York. Each season he has continued as first ranking star among the riding clowns.

The Hannefords are really a family combination. The mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Hanneford, acts as ringmaster, while principal riding roles are handled by Elizabeth Hanneford and husband, Ernest, and Mrs. Grace Hanneford, better known as Mrs. Poodles. The little daughter, Grace, is also learning the art of riding the resin-backs and within a year or two will be ready for the ring.

The Hannefords will be among the features with the Hagenbeck-Wallace Circus, which comes to New Castle on Tuesday, July 7. Two performances will be given at 2 p. m. and 8 o'clock, with the doors to the augmented zoo and menagerie opening an hour in advance.

SALAD LUNCHEON

A salad luncheon is fine for hot days. Start the meal with a cream soup, hot; then the main course, which is a salad plate. Have a stalk of stuffed celery, a couple of radishes, a few slices of tomato, some meat or fish salad on a crisp lettuce leaf, a spoonful of chilled piquant relish, and some rolled sandwiches. It's not as much work as it sounds.

Inventor, 86, Evolves System For Universal Language To Save Time, Work And Money

By M. O. CHENOWETH
International News Service Staff Correspondent

CLEVELAND, July 2. — "Key-code," a symbol system which its inventor hopes can be used as an international auxiliary language service, has been designed by W. E. Irish, 86-year-old Cleveland electrician.

"Key-Code" is a new art of writing, typing, printing, telegraphing and embossing all capitals, double and small letters, numerals and punctuation signs, arranged for the blind as well as the seeing, and consists of only three master keys.

As an auxiliary and international basic language service, according to its designer who has worked two years to develop the system, it would meet one of the chief needs of all mankind by first teaching all children the same alphabet, language, tables of all things measurable, including currency, and same from 25 per cent to 300 per cent in time, work and money.

Only the code for the English language has been worked out by Irish thus far. His system of signs, he states, can correctly and distinctly substitute for everything that can be recorded in the English language.

The master keys for the "Key-Code," are the dot (.), the dash (-) and the parenthesis marks ( ). According to the inventor, these keys never change their form whether used by the seeing or the blind.

Irish's code system with only three master keys is achieved by giving to each key three different positions relative to an actual or imaginary writing line, as above, on, or below it, such as that which governs all writing and printed matter, and by arranging the dash and curve keys in four different methods. The dash is used vertically, and at two acute angles with the real or imaginary line, pointing to the left and right. The parenthesis marks are used in the manner ordinarily seen, and inverted and upright to the line.

By the system the dot represents all forms of the three letters A. B. and C., or the dot above the line for A.; the dot on the line for B., and the dot below the line for C.

Similarily, the horizontal dash represents the next three letters, D. E. and F. The vertical dash is used for G. H. and I.; the acute dash to the right, J. K. L., and the left acute dash, M. N. O. In a similar fashion the curve lines represent the remainder of the letters in the alphabet.

Simplicity marks the new system throughout. With only three keys in use, Irish believes the code would be much faster for use by the millions of persons who take shorthand for a living.

Despite the commercial value of the new code, Irish is mainly interested in establishing a universal sign language by which all people of the world would be able to converse by code intelligently.

"Key-Code" was principally designed to save children the needlessly "wasteful drudgery" of learning hundreds of different styles of symbols which are now used to represent the English language, according to Irish. After working on the system for two years he saw possibilities of forming a basic service for a national or international language.

"Imagine," says the inventor, "the vast progressive strides such a system would enable mankind to make, the great economy of such a service in settling national and international questions.

"It would open new fields of enterprise, establish exchanges and open up new markets in the world, air commerce, education, literature, the arts, sciences and inventions."

See English As World's Tongue

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, July 2. — The English language will be the world language of the future, philologists predict. There are many reasons for this prediction. Here are a few:

First, English is the simplest language, except possibly Danish. Secondly, it contains more foreign words than any other. Thirdly, it is spoken by more persons than any other—220,000,000 to be exact.

Films, advertising, travel and business have spread the English language so widely that you can go almost anywhere on the globe and use it and be inconvenienced very little. English today is what Latin was in the middle ages.

Criminal Who Tried To Be Good Theme Of Study

(International News Service)

CHICAGO, Ill., July 2.—That society itself is responsible for criminals is the belief of Dr. E. W. Burgess, director of the Chicago Behavior Research Fund.

Answering the perplexing problem of how to meet our increasing criminality he says: "Crime is a community responsibility, and must be met by the intelligent and concerted co-operation of all the citizens who are vitally concerned with the problem of human welfare."

The story of the "making" of a criminal, who is prominent in the Chicago press, is presented in a volume of case studies published in the program of sociological research of the Institute for Juvenile Research and the Behavior Research Fund.

Prof. Clifford Shaw, head of the department of research at the institute and co-autor with Maurice E. Moore of the book, stated: "To understand all is to forgive all, the religionist says, and in the matter of this particular criminal one can say scientifically, to understand all is to treat or prevent all."

The young criminal, who tells his own story in the book, was reared in the slum districts of the city. At seven he was first brought into court. He was sentenced to a penal institution before seventeen for a series of crimes.

Although he tested superior intelligence, he was regarded as a moron due to his lack of proper social and cultural contacts. The attitudes and dispositions, which lead to his crimes, were built up gradually. According to the book, the lad really tried to be good.

"The only way I could have quit would have been to be taught something else as interesting," he explained regarding his criminal career. "And I wished to know something else to do."

Speaking of his prison, he said: "Is it any wonder that this place does not improve any one? To be persecuted while being held behind bars and walls is punishment with a vengeance."

Dr. E. W. Burgess, commenting further on the boy's case, stated: "While the public was shocked and horrified by the crimes of violence which the fellow committed and was unrelenting in its demand for punishment, one cannot help but believe that the very public that thus cried out for vengeance was in a large measure responsible for the tragedy of this young life."

Reno Has Become Metropolitan; Shops Open At 10a.m.; Prices High

International News Service Staff Correspondent

(International News Service)

RENO, Nev., July 2.—Two laws have changed Reno from a one-time mining and frontier cow camp to an ultra-modern city that is rapidly acquiring sophistication.

The six weeks divorce statute and the legalized gambling laws of Nevada have worked great changes in Reno.

Every Monday from 50 to 100 persons, having been "residents" of Reno for six weeks, appear in one of the superior courts to secure a divorce in ten minutes or less while Reno goes about its business of entertaining scores of ner arrivals to the famous colony.

A few years ago in Reno a divorce trial attached no small amount of local interest. Today nobody pays any attention to the rapid proceedings of the divorce mill. Prominent persons are assured of securing a divorce without being peered at by courtroom spectators. The speed with which divorces are granted apparently bewilders the natives. Besides gambling has given the city a new and added activity.

Throughout the day "gambling row" teems with all types and classes of people frequenting the resorts. The clink of silver dollars can be heard far outside the doors of the clubs.

Because of its varied "night life" Reno shops and stores take their time about opening up in the morning. Like metropolitan cities Reno does not become alive until around 10 a. m., and like metropolitan cities Reno charges top prices and gets them. According to one businessman, it is known that if one wants to get a divorce in the minimum amount of time, he or she has to stay in Reno. As they must have enough money to come for the purpose of securing the divorce they should have enough money to pay a little for accommodations.

Divorce seekers and tourists lured here by gambling give Reno a smart air. High priced, luxurious motor cars are common on the streets of the town; the latest fashion modes are seen and dress ships stock only the last word in dress offerings. Smoking by women in public places is no longer uncommon. Men wearing berets and cowboys in ten gallon hats are seen in the same gambling halls or on the same hotels.

Reno enjoys the new spectacle and thrives on it. Everybody seems to have fallen into the carnival air that prevails. Almost overnight Reno has become a mecca for sportsmen of the sophisticated type.

Jack Dempsey, former world's heavyweight champion, is one of those enjoying an advantage in the situation and the fight he is promoting will draw thousands from the Pacific coast and from eastern cities.

While the excitement goes on new arrivals to the divorce colony pour into Reno daily. At the courthouse there is little excitement but a great deal of work in handling the daily list of filings and hearing of cases. A socially prominent person seeking a divorce is just one more case at the Washoe county courthouse. The rest of Reno might occasionally be awed by the appearance of one of the Four Hundred, but the operators of the high-speed divorce mill have no time to be awed; not when they have almost 100 filings and 50 or 60 divorces a week to look after.

Luzerne County Officials Squabble Over Enforcement Of Law

(International News Service)

WILKES-BARRE, Pa., July 2.—A demand for more vigorous application of the state 4-mill tax on stocks and trust receipts has been made here by Luzerne county commissioners.

In a communication to County Comptroller Leonard Morgan, the commissioners claimed the law has not been properly enforced. Morgan countered with a charge that the commissioners' office has "played politics" with regard to collection of the levy.

The state is now collecting on upward of sixty million dollars worth of securities held in the county, it is estimated.

Safe Excitement Best For Fourth, Expert Says

By GARRY C. MYERS, PH. D.
Head, Division Parental Education, Cleveland College, Western Reserve University.

Many times more children have lost their lives or have been injured celebrating the Fourth of July than the total of American soldiers killed or wounded in our country's war for independence.

Most states now have laws against fireworks and some of the larger cities save more stringent ones. But such laws are not easily enforced and a good many children get fireworks and are injured by them.

The only safe thing to do is for each parent to see that his children are not given fireworks and, moreover, that they are not allowed to be with other children who have them. The child with these dangerous toys which are his is likely to be far safer than the child who, forbidden them, slips away to share them with another child.

* * *

Children are children. They must have some excitement on the Fourth. Plan a picnic or some safe neighborhood activity; make the day unusual in some safe way. Make it clear to the children what will be permitted and what will not be, so there will arise no pleading and no arguments.

We have generally gone with our children to see the evening fireworks or our city, although such wholesale waste of public money always has seemed to me to be very foolish.

* * *

We parents should remember that besides safety there is a moral issue. If we bootleg fireworks or allow our children to do so, and if we approve their use of them in violation of the laws of our community, we do harm to our children's character.

Why not read the Declaration of Independence before the family and talk with the children about some of the great Americans by whose sacrifices the liberties of our country were bought?

A good time it is, then, to call their attention to the horrors of war and the blessing of peace; moreover, to the recent efforts of the leading nations of the world to outlaw war. A good time to discuss with the older children, if their interest can be enlisted, the many conveniences we enjoy today which the boys and girls of '76 did not have. Our children may be interested in a game of naming things we have today which no one ever heard of then. A good time to talk with them about great men and women through whose efforts these blessings have been brought to us.

Let the family prayers (if such there are), be for our country's peace, to the end that our children and their children's children never shall have to meet their fellow men in battle, but that they may spend their efforts toward fighting against bad habits, warring against diseases and the evils which bring unhappiness to homes.

We want our children to be "minute men" defending righteousness and making themselves fit, bye and bye, to be useful citizens in their neighborhood.

Highway Forces Help To Beautify Area Along Roads

HARRISBURG, July 2.—More than 1,268,000 square feet of berm were grass seeded recently for the forestry force of the Pennsylvania department of highways. The largest areas were in Fayette and Greene counties where 686,400 square feet were treated. In addition nearly 800 asquare feet of slopes and culverts were seeded and over 6200 square feet of culverts sodded.

Almost 120,000 plants, shrubs and vines were planted to hold the slopes along the highways, the largest planting being 11,000 lineal feet along route 113 in Fayette county. More than 3100 plants, shrubs and trees were set out for shade, snow breaks and cooperative planting.

Town entrance plantings were made at Lock Haven, Brookville, Siegel, Edinboro, Montrose and Saulnga, in cooperation with various local organizations. There were 25 other cooperative planting completed over the state, the largest being made in Jefferson county in cooperation with the Jefferson County Motor club, which sponsored six plantings. Practically all spring planting work was completed before May 30, except in several of the north tier counties where cold, rainy weather delayed the work.

Measles Epidemic Reaches High Mark

HARRISBURG, July 2.—Dr. J. Moore Campbell, director of bureau of communicable diseases, state department of health, said today that the state has just weathered an epidemics of measles that has surpassed, in point of number of cases, all years since 1926. Nearly 65,000 cases have bene reported from all parts of the current year.

For the month of May, in the rural districts of the state, 6380 cases were reported, a morbidity rate of 14.3 cases per hundred thousand population.

In commenting on this situation, Dr. Campbell said, "It is well knokn, at least in the medical profession, that the worst feature of measles is the dangerous after effects. Eyes may become seriously damaged, ears rendered deaf or tuberculosis may secure a foothold. It is a pity that parents do not realize this and endeavor to protect their families against infection. In many homes quarantine is looked upon as a mere nuisance, to be evaded if possible. To the public spirited citizen it is a certificate attesting to his willingness to do his bit to prevent suffering or worse in others; and the others are usually helpless children."

Geologist Finds Sea Cow's Home Of 30 Million Years Ago

By EDWARD S. BAUER, Jr.
International News Service Staff Correspondent

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, July 2.—How the present campus of Stanford university was once the bottom of a tropical sea in which prehistoric monsters lived, has been revealed by Dr. Bailey Willis, one of America's foremost geologists and professor-emeritus of geology at Stanford.

Discovery of rock-encrusted bones on the campus led faculty members of the geology staff to study the rocks to determine their age and the nature of the sea beasts that once fought and swam where the sandstone halls of Stanford stand today.

"Thirty million years ago the 'miocene manatee,' which is now known as the 'sea cow,' lived in these parts. At that time this area was an achipelago and the present mountain tops were islands," Dr. Willis said.

"The Pacific extended to the base of the Sierra Nevada mountains and the entire San Joaquin valley was under water. Warm marine currents made life suitable for the manatee whose descendants can be found today in certain tropical regions," the geologist continued.

Known to science as the "miocene manatee," the creature is one of the most peculiar ever studied. It was a small, whale-shaped mammal with hands not unlike those of human beings. It is because of this peculiarity that the name "manatee" was appended, having been taken from the Latin "manus," meaning hand.

It had twenty pairs of sharp teeth which served for defensive and food gathering purposes since its chief food was sea weed. Sharp claws, almost talons, were on each finger and served to fend off any undersea enemy of the manatee.

"We are certain that the manatee lived in the miocene period during what is known as the middle period which was just 30,000,000 years ago," Dr. Willis added.

Actual bones of the manatee, well preserved in the stones, were found at the headwaters of San Francisquito creek which passes through the Stanford campus on its way to San Francisco bay.

When the sea beasts died, their bones became encrusted with stone and formed what scientists call "concretions," indicating the deposit of various minerals on the bones. When the stones are shattered, the bones are found inside, encased since a time shortly after the death of the manatee.

On this earth today only a few descendants of the manatee can be found. A few in Africa and some in Australia and the Carribean region, but these are degenerate creatures doomed to die soon and pass into the past of science like the flying reptiles, the cohippus, and hairy rhinocerous, Dr. Willis explains.

Damage In One State In Single Year Amounts To Million

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, July 2. — Termites, insects resembling the ant, are revealed by architectural researches as expert engineers which ravage buildings and their contents, and together with fungi cause heavy annual losses. Studies reported to the American Institute of Architects by Mellon C. Greeley of Jacksonville, Fla., show that damage in Illinois in a single year amounted to $1,000,000. Architects are urged to sponsor nationwide effort to combat the invasion.

"Termites are known to have destroyed valuable papers filed in strictly noncombustible vaults which were apparently immune from any other source of damage, and which were constructed entirely of steel concrete and masonry," says the report.

Termites, it was found, are deserting the forests for the cities. The exodus, it is believed, is due to the destruction of the forests.

"In locating food, termites show an almost uncanny knowledge or instinct and in order to reach it they often show an engineering ability which is hard to believe," the report continues. "They seem able to sense wood at a considerable distance, as for instance the sills of a building resting on masonry a foot or more from the earth, or the joists and flooring some inches higher.

"If the masonry is defective they may build their runways along the cracks or even through the mortar, but if the masonry is of good quality they will build passage tubes composed of a secretion, mixed with sand and particles of wood, in order to span the non-edible area. It is known that they sometimes build free-standing tubes extending up from the earth as high as 18 inches in order to reach the bottom of joists.

"When contact has been made at one or more places in the wood construction, the workers run channels as far as necessary in order to supply food to the colony. These channels are usually run well within the timber following the softer parts of the annular rings, and for this reason a piece of wood may be practically consumed without there being any surface indication.

"Termites live in colonies much as do the ants and the bees, and even more than the others, the termites have developed a high order of community life which has is kings and queens, its workers, its soldiers and other castes. Each colony is self-sufficient and no connection is maintained with any other colony.

Travel Bureau Is Planned For State Capital This Year

Will Try To "Sell Pennsylvania" To Tourists Of State

HARRISBURG, July 2—Pennsylvania will be "sold" to motor tourists from the main entrance of the State Capitol this summer.

The 'selling" will be done through a travel information bureau located at the main entrance of the state house and directed by several of the most pulchritudinous young women employees of the state highway department, Secretary of Highways Sam Lewis today disclosed.

"Establishment of the information bureau" said Lewis, "is in line with our plan to 'sell Pennsylvania' to Pennsylvanians and others. We propose to encourage inquires and suggest ways of spending vacation time within our own state. Pennsylvania has all the natural beauty and motor facilities necessary for its enjoyment by travellers."

The bureau, Lewis said, will specialize in Pennsylvania destinations and points of interest and a complete file of historic places, natural beauty spots, natural wonders and other points of interest will be kept at the bureau for reference and guidance of visitors.

Banker Becomes Despondent And Commits Suicide

Robert R. Hays, 52, Well Known In Washington County, Kills Self

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Pa., July 2—Believed despondent over the failure of two banks of which he was an official, Robert R. Hays, 50, well known in Washington county banking circles, shot and killed himself in his home late yesterday, a coroner's report revealed today.

Hays was president of the First National Bank and Trust Company which closed its doors two months ago here and was also a member of the board of directors of the Farmers National Bank at Hickory which failed two days later. He was reported to have suffered a nervous breakdown in his zealous efforts to effect a financial reorganization of the two financial institutions.

Shot Near Heart.

According to the coroner's report, Hays shot himself in the bathroom of his home. The bullet penetrated near his heart. He was dead when the family physician arrived.

Hays was graduated from Washington and Jefferson college in 1902. He was born at Dinsmore, Pa., a son of James S. Hays, president of the Farmers National Bank at Hickory. He entered the banking business as cashier of the First National Bank and was one of the leaders in the merging of that bank with the Real Estate Trust Company to form a $6,000,000 bank.

He leaves his widow, a son, and a daughter.

Friends of the banker reported that depositors in both closed institutions would receive about a 90 per cent dividend.

Death Toll In Detroit Mounts

Twenty Deaths Are Recorded In Last 24 Hours; Canada Also Swelters

(International News Service)

DETROIT, July 2—Detroit continued to swelter from the heat wave as it counted its dead today. Twenty deaths and 39 prostrations were recorded here during the past 24 hours. Thirty-three others have died from the intense temperature during the past 10 days.

In Ontario Province, Canada across the international border, eight persons died from the heat and 12 others were drowned.

In Michigan, outside of Detroit, three heat deaths and numerous drownings were recorded.

The high temperature yesterday was 97 degrees. It was taken from the top of the 15 story Majestic building while the temperature at the street level reached as high as 108 degrees.

Cool winds gave only slight relief this morning. The atmosphere was heavy and the heat almost unbearable. In the face of the large number of deaths, many offices in the city remained closed today.

Record temperatures ruled throughout the state with the high at Grand Rapids where the mercury reached 101.

Government Leases East Brook Rifle Range For Troop F

Negotiations have been completed between Captain Harvey G. Bintrim commander of Troop F, local National Guard unit, May Hydrick of Meadville and Everett Young of East Brook for the leasing of a plot of two acres in East Brook to serve as a rifle range for the local guardsmen.

The lease was effective Thursday after it had been approved by the U. S. Property and Disbursing Officers at Harrisburg.

According to Captain Bintrim, the range, which has been leased for one year, will be a boon to the troop, which lost 5 per cent during a recent Federal inspection for not having acquired a range.

A cottage may be erected on the ground. Already 12 guardsmen have qualified on the range.

Mariner Claims He Has Located Treasure Ship, Lost With 128 Lives

(International News Service)

SAN FRANCISCO, July 2. — Charles C. Haskell, a retired mariner, has just astonished San Francisco's water front with a claim that he found the wreck of the gold laden steamer Rio de Janerio, which sank off the Golden Gate in 1901.

Haskell, who declared he would start operations immediately to recover the metal, filed a salvage claim with the city recorder and announced to attaches of the office that he wanted "everybody to know" he had found the ship. He would not reveal its location, however.

The Rio de Janerio steaming into San Francisco bay, suddenly sank with a loss of 128 lives and gold bullion reported to be worth several million dollars.

Haskell said he found wreckage from the steamer, and its resting place, on May 7 last. Numerous attempts in the past by salvage firms and fortune hunters to find the wrecked vessel have proved unavailing.

William Reed, a famous Pacific Coast diver, told International News Service an interesting story regarding Haskell and attempts previously made to locate the sunken ship.

"Haskell came to me two years ago," Reed said, "and wanted me to dive for him. He said he had a divining rod, which he had used in the gold mining districts of California, and which never had failed to locate gold deposits.

"His proposition was for the two of us to go out at the entrance to the Golden Gate and for me to dive wherever his diving rod wiggled.

"I wouldn't do it, figuring I could find the wreck for myself as easily as I could for Haskell. And, as for the Rio de Janerio being found, I doubt it..

"I, and other divers and salvage operators, have been trying for years to find the Rio, and we've never gotten a trace of her.

"She hit on the point at the Golden Gate on a very foggy night, backed off and disappeared.

"She might be lying in one of the deep holes by the Gate or she may have floated for miles to sea before her air tight compartments were swept away.

"I'm going to explore the holes by the Gate this summer when I get equipment that I can go down 370 feet in, the depth of the depression. At present I can only submerge about 300 feet."

Old Blue Laws Are Not So Bad

Laws Framed By Duke Of York In 1676 Were Far More Severe In Penalties

(International News Service)

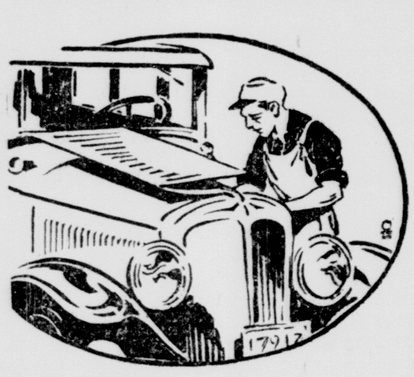

PHILADELPHIA, July 2. — The oft-berated "Sunday blue laws" of Pennsylvania are not half so bad today as they were in 1676 under a code of laws known as the "Book of Laws of the Duke of York," according to historians here.

At that time, the historical Chronicle of the University of Pennsylvania records, fines were imposed for such heinous crimes as smoking on the streets of Philadelphia. The fines were used to purchase fire buckets.

Denial of the true God and cursing of a parent by a child over sixteen, under the "Duke's Laws," were listed as capital offenses.

Air Transport Growth Steady, Report Shows

Increase In Mileage And Freight Shown During Year

MORE PASSENGERS ARE ALSO CARRIED

(International News Service)

BOSTON, July 2.—Air transport operations through the United States has shown a sound and steady growth, according to figures compiled by the Aeronautical Chamber of Commerce and released by the Aviation Bureau of the Boston Chamber of Commerce.

Preliminary figures comparing operations in the first quarter of 1931 with the first quarter of 1930 compiled from reports of 32 air transport companies showed an increase of 2,581,013 in scheduled mileage, an increase of 2,383,000 in actual mileage flown or 1.8 per cent; an increase of 276,094 in air mail poundage; a decrease of 8,438 in passengers carried; an incerase of 1,413,435 in passenger miles flown an increase of 47 average miles per passenger.

Although there was a drop in the total number of passengers, established lines showed an increase, the report revealed, the fall-off was in new lines which started in 1930 and for the first few months had a heavy "novelty" traffic.

The aviation bureau considered this an unusual showing during the depression. While air transportation is more expensive (about 7 cents a mile per passenger), the saving of time apparently justified its use, the report showed. Another significant fact shown was the increase in length of the average passenger trip.

The improvement in the performance of the air transport was also demonstrated. Weather during the first quarter was the worst in the year (93 per cent of incompleted mileage was due to it) and yet 88.5 per cent of scheduled service was completed in 1931 as against 86.7 per cent in 1930.

Another decided development in aviation service was the announced participation in air transportation.

Woman Finds Self "Without A Country"

(International News Service)

PARIS, July, 2.—The well-known "man without a country" had nothing on a pretty English woman, Peggy Vere, who makes her home in Paris. Some years ago she married an American dancer, Oscar Mouvet and thereby took on his nationality. Later, her husband died and now, on the eve of seeking work in England, she has been told she must first obtain a Home Office permit.

After her marriage, she did not automatically become an American citizen, because she lived in France with her husband, and she would have had to live two years in America before being able to take out papers for her citizenship.

The Women's Congress which will meet in Geneva early in July, is hoping to arrange a number of these perplexing questions which are ever arising for women who have married foreigners.

Can Throw Stones At This Glass House

(International News Service)

PARIS, July, 2.—One can throw stones at the first glass house built in this city without disturbing the tenants.

Peeping Tom could station himself beneath the windows when they are lit up at nightfall with opera glasses and see nothing but translucent glass.

Pierre Chareau, the architect says glass will last longer than brick or cement and thus finds the cost relatively cheap.

The unusual structure has three floors and looks like an igloo, striking an Arctic note in the Latin Quarter which already boasts a Mohammendan mosque, chalets and tumble-down shacks. But easier to heat than an igloo, says Chareau.

Sports Give Body Needed Exercising

Get Fit For Winter In "Good Old Summertime"

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

Summer is the time generally given over to getting the body in good condition for the rigors of the rest of the year. It is unquestionably the healthiest time of the year. The sun, the great life giver, is out more hours of the day. The temperature allows of being outdoors in good fresh air for most of the time. Fresh food of all kinds is available. Contact and contagion from huddling people together indoors is reduced to a minimum.

Not the least of the benefits of summer is the opportunity for training the body with exercise and sport.

The best exercise for those who are not athletes in training is some form of game. All the best games that humans have invented are played with a ball and a stick of some kind. Primitive man and our forefathers, the apes, probably played them with round stones or nuts or fruits and limbs of trees. When you get away from predatory pursuits, such as hunting and fishing, and contests such as wrestling and boxing and racing, that is about all we have left, even in our advanced state of civilization.

Skill with ball and bat, or stock, or racquet, trains not only the muscles, but the nervous system—eye, brain and equilibrium apparatus. The ability to hit a ball is the result of one of the most delicate and fascinating adjustments of the whole body.

Nobody can be an athlete without a good cerebellum. Think for a moment of the almost magical difficulty of the procedure. Take a batter in a baseball game for the example. He stands with a bat in his hands and he brings the surface of the bat exactly against the surface of a ball moving with considerable rapidity towards him and never being closer than three or four feet to his body. To do it successfully from the standpoint of the game, he must bring an exact point of the bat against a point on the ball so exactly proper that if it were a thirty-second of an inch off center, failure would result. Not only that, but it must be done at a moment in time when the rapidly moving ball is exactly opposite him represented by the smallest fraction of a second.

It is one of the most astonishing things the body does.

And it is all accomplished by training the cerebellum. The cerebellum is a sort of clearing house for nervous impulses from the eye, the organ of equilibrium (the semi-circular canals located near the ear), the muscles, joint surfaces, tendons and skin. The impulses from the muscles, permitting the batter to put the bat at an exact point in space some distance away from his body. The equilibrium fibers also connect with the muscle and joint and tendon fibers allowing them to balance the weight of the body at exactly the proper pivotal point.

It all works together. It is, of course, all automatic, but it is one of the most beautiful adjustments in nature.

Says Hoover Dam Will Draw Industries

(International News Service)

DENVER, July, 2.—A shift of the center of the nation's electric-chemical industries from the Niagara Falls region to the Colorado river basin as a result of the construction of the Hoover dam was forecast by George W. Malone, state engineer of Nevada and a member of the Colorado river commission, who was in Denver recently conferring with representatives of other western states regarding power development on the Colorado.

"The Hoover dam, with its cheapest of all electric power, will mean that many industrial plants will move to the west where we have plenty of cheap sites and lower taxes," Malone said. "The electric-chemical industries for instance, are centered in Canada and in the Niagara Falls district, but they are looking for cheap power, cheap sites and lower taxes. The electric power of Niagara is more valuable for other industries. The Hoover dam will furnish power at 2¼ mills a kilowatt-hour, the cheapest power in the United States."

The Electric-Chemical Engineers Association of America will hold its next annual meeting in Salt Lake City in October.

One-Armed Aviator Seeks Pilot's License

WASHINGTON, July 2. — Dale Riblett, one-armed flier of Youngstown, O., applied yesterday for a pilot's license.

The application put the commerce department up in the air. There are no one-armed fliers holding pilot's licenses. Still, Riblett can fly—he has 1,000 hours solo in the air, with no crackups.

Riblett was sent back to Ohio to take a flying test. If he passes he probably will be given a restricted license, permitting him to fly only his own plane, and to carry no passengers.

Riblett flies a Cosena cabin monoplane and has the throttle fastened on to the control stick so that he can manipulate both with one hand.

Colleges Must Solve Problem Of How To Make A Living, Says Dean

(International News Service)

BOULDER, Colo., July 2.—Tax-supported state universities, to fulfill their obligations to the state must not only teach the student and encourage the scholar in fields of research, but must reach out beyond the campus and become a real factor in adult education, Dean Elmore Petersen of the extension division of the University of Colorado told members of the National University Extension Association when he welcomed them to the sixteenth annual convention here.

The three problems of the adult citizen which the university extension divisions must help solve Dean Petersen told the 70 representatives of the 42 member institutions, are the problem of making a living, the problem of living together with others, and the problem of living with oneself. These, he said, are "fundamental and inescapable problems."

"One should speak cautiously when he suggests that the university has any responsibility whatever to people in their struggle to make a living," said the Dean ,who is president of the association. "But in these economically distressful times no one except those ignorantly or wilfully blind can help seeing how dreadfully important the mere making of a living is. I am convinced that many of the ills the world is suffering from are due to lack of an understanding and correct application of economic laws, forces, principles, that operate in the affairs of men.

"This conviction was strengthened by having attended the annual meeting of the national chamber of commerce, wnich was a great open confessional, where business laid its troubles upon its own doorstep and accepted the charge of having itself to blame. But more than that, it pointed its way out of its difficulties by means of research and education. Research to get at the actual truth about our economic structure in all of its ramifications; and then, education, because it is only by wise planning and action based on facts rather than guesses or hopes of unfounded assertions, that economic prosperity can be attained and maintained."

Democracy is on trial today as never before, Dean Petersen declared, in developing the problem of man's living together with other men. Because it requires knowledge and judgment and courage to be a citizen today, as never before. He pointed out that education should not cease with formal schooling but continue through the active years. Here again is business for the university extension division.

"To do and to share are futile unless we learn also 'to be,' and here the individual comes squarely up to his greatest problem: the business of living with oneself," Dean Petersen said. "It is the business of education to lead men and women to reflect on the way they are going, to give them something significant to think about, yes, even to help them teach them to think."

Big Deer Stages Terrific Battle

Deer Dashes Madly Through Carbondale, Pa., And Town Is In Uproar

TWO OFFICERS HAVE TOUGH TIME

CARBONDALE, Pa., July 2. — A deer that dashed madly through streets and alleys, dodged motor cars and pursuers, and finally put up a strenuous battle against capture when cornered threw this town into a frenzy of excitement.

The deer, a doe and a fleet-footed one, came off the West Mountain and into town. Police headquarters were notified the animal was galloping about and two officers were sent to rescue the doe from the perils of the city.

They did, at the cost of a new suit each and several well-distributed bruises. After finding the doe, the officers attempted to take her into temporary custody, but she fled, leading them a merry chase through a great part of the residential section and some of the business district.

Finally they cornered the animal, but the doe lunged and kicked, jumped and butted and almost won. But reinforcements arrived and she was subdued.

Patrolman Patsy Neuttis, who in his time has been called on to capture a wildcat, a rattlesnake and several cows, decided the deer capture was one of the hardest of his twelve years on the police force.

Airplane Service From France To Africa Proposed

Company Is Being Organized For Business In Europe

WASHINGTON, July 2. — A company to operate an air line connecting France with African colonies may be created by a bill now in the French Parliament, according to a report received in the Commerce Department from Trade Commissioner W. L. Finger, at Paris.

According to an agreement between France and Belgium, ratified a short time ago, the French government should designate within three months after the ratification of the agreement the French company to exploit the line.

The bill provides for the duration of the company until April 1, 1941, unless dissolved before that time. The capital is to be 16,000,000 francs (approximately $607,200), divided into 16,000 shares of 1,000 francs each. Two thousand five hunrded of these shares will be given to the French government, 500 to Algeria, 500 to French West Africa and 500 to French Equatorial Africa for concessions made by the governments of these areas.

Six thousand shares will be reserved to the French government and the remaining 6,000 will be open for subscription to French citizens.

The board of directors of the company will consist of 16 members, of which eight will be named by the French government, and the other five directors must be approved by the Minister of Air. During the four first years of operation deficit will be covered by the givernment, within the limits of credits voted annually by parliament; for the six following years a decree will fix the amount of subsidy according to a minimum guarantee per kilometer.

Ellwood Plant Team Wins From Canadians

ELLWOOD CITY, July 2—Great throngs of local people turned out to see the first international mushball game held in this district, when the Ellwood City Mathews entertained the Mathews of Port Hope, Canada on Lincoln field last night. The locals won the first game 14-10 of a two game series. Last summer in Canada the two teams broke even—each winning one game.

The Ellwood Mathews took an early lead—scoring in each of the first five innings, through some excellent base running. The invaders made the game very interesting when they scored three runs in the third making the score 4-3 in favor of the locals. The Ellwood team came across the home plate once in the fourth and twice in the fifth to widen their margin. This was narrowed down when the Canadians scored a run in the sixth inning making the score 7-4.

Another supreme effort was made by the visitors at the beginning of the seventh inning when two more runs were scored to bring them within one point of the Ellwood City lead, score 7-6. But their hopes were blighted when Kaldy, local second baseman smacked out a homer with three on base. Evidently they never say die, in Canada, for the visitors also scored 4 runs through some good placement hitting and a circuit blow by D. Frew. Nevertheless the locals still enjoyed a one point lead of 11-10 at the end of the eighth frame and widened this when they finished batting by three more runs. The Canadians were held scoreless in the final chapter and the game ended with the final score being 14-10 in favor of the Ellwood Mathews.

The fine hitting by Kaldy, Davis and McKeough was outstanding for the winners while D. Frew and C. Frew were the best bets for the Canadians.

It was apparent that the local pitching staff was superior to the visitors. Bell and Laurie of the visitors allowed 13 walks between them which is believed to have cost them the game. Eckert pitched a plendid game as long as he was in there. Davis pitched about half of the game and performed well also he is accredited with allowing three walks.

The Port Hope boys will wind up the celebration of Dominion Day, a national holiday in Canada with another mushball game with the locals and a picnic sports program at Peace Valley, Ohio, which is given in their honor by the Mathews Conveyor of this city.

Stribling-Schmeling Eagerly Await Gong

Another Thirty-Six Hours And New Heavyweight Champion Will Be Crowned

Stribling Looks Like Best Of Two Big Boys Who Will Fight In Cleveland

By BILL CORUM
International News Service Sports Writer

CLEVELAND, Ohio, July 2.—Thirty-six hours more and another chapter will have been written in the unfinished book that began with John L. Sullivan. Thirty-six hours more and Herr Max Schmeling and Mistuh William Stribling, of Jawja, Sah, will have settled their little personal difficulty in Cleveland's new picture stadium overlooking the roll and wash of sullen old Lake Erie.

Thirty six hours more and a new heavyweight champion may have moved into file alongside the Corbetts, the Fitzsimmonses, the Jeffries, the Johnsons, the Dempseys and the Tunneys.

Something must fall in that shiny new two-and-one-half million dollar amphitheatre tomorrow night, if nothing else than the temperature. And it wouldn't be at all surprising to see a young and handsome prize fighter go down with the mercury.

Are Both Young.

Schmeling and Stribling are both handsome and both young. The Herr is 25 and Mistuh Will 26. Mere babies alongside us veterans of the resin wars who saw a thunder-scowling, tiger-limbed Dempsey wilt the orchid man of France behind the signboards of New Jersey on another scorching July 2, just ten years ago today.

So, with all their youth and the bright years stretching before them, tomorrow night's test becomes a sort of last shot in the locker for both boys.

The Striblings, father and son and body and soul, do want that title, but not even Pa and Ma, strained and suffering in his corner, as they will be tomorrow night, can do their William much good once that bell rings, however.

Once that gong goes, Willie will be up there on his own, and if a Stribling ever is to follow in the direct line started by Sullivan, he must fight his fight. Barring the unforseen, he can win if he does.

That's as close as I'm coming to a prediction on this fight. But I have a hunch "Strib" will wangle it. He's overdue.

Golfers Start Grind Today In National Open

Leading Golfers Throughout World Will Seek Title At Toledo, Ohio

BOBBY JONES IS MERELY SPECTATOR

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN
International News Service Sports Writer

TOLEDO, Ohio, July 2.—Ushered in by a heat wave, the 1931 "national open" swung into being here today with the vanguard of a field of nearly 150 of the world's greatest golfers trudging over historic inverness in a titanic struggle for the honor of being named the successor to Bobby Jones, the titleholder.

With the illustrious Jones on the sidelines as a mere spectator, the event was strictly an "open" championship. It was, in fact, "wide open," for at least a dozen—perhaps twenty players—were conceded a brilliant chance to win.

Evenly Matched.

As the sports classic got under way, the public—not only here in Toledo, but all over America—was intrigued by the spectacle of a battalion of evenly matched players fighting it out with every indication pointing to the likelihood that the issue would not be decided until the last shot or two is fired Saturday evening.

Everybody was guessing the probable winner. But, unlike previous years when Jones was in there shooting pars and birdies with machine-like precision, they did not know. One guess was about as good as another.

Tommy Armour, Gene Sarazen, Walter Hagen, Harry Cooper, Al Espinosa, Denny Shute, Billy Burke, Johnny Farrell, MacDonald Smith, Whiffy Cox, Percy Allis, Henry Cotton, Abe Mitchell—these were some of the names most frequently mentioned by the gallery fans who have been watching the practice rounds and speculating on winner.

Hello, Georgia!

Announce Second-Half Of Mushball Schedule

New Castle Mushball League Is Big Success This Year

Arrange Benefit Game For Matt Honkonen—Lockleys Lead

The second-half of the New Castle mushball league Class A schedule is announced today. The second-half begins with the games carded for Thursday July 9. There are six teams in the league.

The Lockleys at the present time look like the winners of the first-half schedule, with the Shenango Tin and American Can Company team running them a close race. If the Lockleys win the first-half they will meet the winners of the second-half for the title in the Class A league. If the Lockleys win both halves there is of course no play-off game, the winners merely meeting the winners of the Class B league for the City championship.

League Big Success

The league has been a big success this year due to the earnest cooperation of all involved. The players have readily adapted themselves to the small 12-inch ball, and they are loud in their praise of the officials of the league in selecting the smaller ball. It has made a much better game. Faster and cleaner played.

The franchise money of $5.00 has helped to keep the league together. The umpiring has been fine, with Price, Brooks, Hamilton, Castele, Hudson and Gillium, working the games. The crowds have increased considerably. There seems to be a wide interest in the mushball league here this summer.

The various managers have done all in their power to keep the league going top speed.

Honkonen Breaks Leg

Only one misfortune has occurred and that was the injury to Matt Honkonen, when the East Side Service second baseman broke his leg at Washington Field in a game with the Spencers. A benefit game has already been played for Honkonen and $15.00 realized. Another benefit game is being arranged for Centennial Field on July 10, at which time the East Side Service will play the Shenango Tin Mill.

The managers are asked to clip this schedule of the second-half and keep it with them during the season.

Church League's Scores Sought

The scores of different games being held in the church mushball league are not being turned in to the News the league officials announce. A standing of the league is impossible if these scores are not turned into the News on the same night that they are played. Up to today there are only five teams whose standings are complete. The other five teams are not complete because of the fact they have not turned in their game scores.

There will be a meeting of both mushball and tennis managers at the "Y" Friday evening at 7:30 o'clock. This will be the final meeting of the league before the start of the second half. There are a few changes that are to be brought up for consideration and to be voted upon. The managers of the different teams are requested to call the "Y" and leave their complete records of Wins and Losses up to today

Stribling Will Be Favorite In Friday's Fight

First Time In Many Years That Champion Has Entered Ring On Short End

GERMANS BACK COUNTRYMAN

By LES CONKLIN
International News Service Sports Writer

NEW YORK, July 2—Unless there is a last-minute change in the odds, Max Schmeling will be the under dog in the betting when he makes the first defense of his heavyweight title against Willie Stribling in Cleveland tomorrow night.

For the first time in nearly a quarter of a cenutry, a heavyweight champion will be the long shot in the betting. Not since Tommy Burns went to the post on the short end against Jack Johnson at Sidney, Australia, in 1908, has a similar situation prevailed.

At one local commission house today Stribling was a 6 to 5 favorite to win the title. With Schmeling's supporters asking odds of 7 to 5.

Germans Bet Heavy

The only large bet reported was made earlier in the week when a group of Germans in Berlin posted $10,000 on their countryman with a brokerage house here. They got only even money, whereas today they could ask odds and get them.

Another well-known betting commissioner here has handled only one commission on the fight to date, with Stribling a slight favorite. The betting has been lighter than on any similar event in history.

Fight followers here believe Stribling will win the decision if the bout goes the limit of fifteen rounds, but are not saying it with cash because of Schmeling's admitted chance to register a knockout. It was in New York that the German made his best fights, knocking out Johnny Risko and cutting Paulino to ribbons.

Ball Yard Banter

The Athletics are looking for a mysterious bat which, if rumor is true, has all the magic potency of Aladdin's lamp. This stick, now vanished, is reported to have countless base hits stored in it by some benevolent baseball genii.

* * *

Joe Boley, Philadelphia infielder, first tried the stick, but he didn't like it's weight or something and tossed it away.

* * *

Phil Todt accidentally picked up the club as he came to bat in a certain game and the first time up he cracked a home run. Before the game had ended Phil had smacked a second homer. Now, Phil has never aspired to the home run leadership, and two on an afternoon by him is regarded by the A's as little short of miraculous.

* * *

However, Phil thought it was just an accident and abandoned the war club for another of easier feel and swing. No more homers for Phil.

* * *

Meanwhile, George Earnshaw by mistake picked up the discarded bat and began a hitting spree which had the A's and their opposition gasping. George soaked enemy moundsmen for 10 hits in 13 trips to the plate! And then the bat disappeared.

* * *

What has become of the potent war club the A's would like to know, as even such sluggers as Mickey Cochrane and Al Simmons could use it.

* * *

The Athletics think some illwisher has carted off the club, to prevent the Philadelphia club from breaking all hitting records. However, some hold to the theory that maybe Connie Mack has planted the stick in hopes of growing a crop of them for next season.

Klein Leading In Home Runs

Philadelphia National Slugger Whacks Out His Homer Number 21

ATHLETICS GAIN; SENATORS LOSE

By COPELAND C. BURG
International News Service Sports Writer.

NEW YORK, Jul. 2.—Chuck Klein, the Philadelphia Phillies' bludgeoner, who makes hits where nothing grew before, jumped into a lead today over the home run hitters of the National and American leagues. He whacked homer No. 21 yesterday as the Phillies pushed over the Chicago Cubs, 11 to 6. He also made a triple, a double and a single, gaining the lead in the National league batting competition.

The New York Giants moved to within two and one-half games of the pace setting St. Louis Cardinals defeating the champions 4 to 3.

Athletics Gain.

Philadelphia speeded ahead in the American fight, Lefty Grove managing to win a 4 to 3 setto with another of the really great pitchers, Wesley Ferrell of Cleveland.

Red Kress singled to score Melillo for the run that gave the St. Louis Browns a 4 to 3 win over Washington.

Herb Pennock gave the Detroit Tigers ten hits, while Herring permitted only seven by the Yankees, but the New Yorkers took it, 4 to 2.

A homer by Babe Herman helped Joe Shaute mark up his eighth pitching venture for the Brooklyn Robins, who lowered away the Cincy Reds, 3 to 1.

Pittsburgh made it three out of four in slamming the Boston Braves, 4 to 1. Spencer was the winning hurler.

Jack Russell held the Boston Red Sox to three hits until the ninth when the heat sapped him, but he managed to stagger through to the bitter end, surmounting four safeties and two runs by Chicago to wrap it up for the Red Sox 5 to 3.

Malizias Win From Volant

In a fast tilt played on the Croton field on Wednesday night the Malizia nine won a 6-1 victory over the strong Volant, aggregation.

F. Stone with two hits including a double was the outstanding hitter for the Malizias while Sontag and Allen secured the only two hits off F. Stone. The game was fast throughout.

West Pittsburg Losses First Place

Universal Sanitary Leads Lawrence County Loop As Wampum Trips League Leaders

With only two days left before the close of the first half of the Lawrence County baseball league, the leadership of the circuit has once more switched hands by virtue of Wampum's startling defeat of West Pittsburg on Wednesday night, 9-6.

While Wampum was defeating West Pittsburg, who prior to the game lead the league, the Universal Sanitary team was playing golf. As a result the Universals today find themselves king of the league for the present anyhow.

Shenango Stopped

The onward rush of the Shenango Pottery team which captured six straight league tilts was stopped by Hillsville on Wednesday. The score was 7-5. If Hillsville continues to play the ball it played Wednesday, the Universal Sanitary team has a tough task tonight when it meets the quarry boys.

While the Universals and Hillsville will be battling at the Universal field, Brent is carded to appear at Centennial field tonight. On Friday night the Scarazzo who must win to remain in the first half fight meet Bessemer at Bessemer.

Should the Universals win they will be in, that is if Bessemer beats the Scarazzos. Earlier in the season the Universals and Scarazzos played a tie contest. This game will probably be played later on.

The Scarazzos moved up a noche as a result of its 10-8 victory over North Highland. The second half race starts on Saturday.

Utility And Industrial Stocks Lead Days Rise

By W. S. COUSINS
International News Service Financial Editor

NEW YORK, July 2.—The Public Utility stocks and the favorite Industrials were the leaders this morning in a moderate upturn in prices, patterned chiefly after the rally in the principal European markets. Trading on the big board dropped off to the lowest volume since the flare-up on the war-debt holiday started on June 20, with only 200,000 shares passing through in the first half-hour. In the absence of definite new developments in domestic business and finance, Wall Street followed with particular interest the progress of moratorium parleys at Paris.

United States Steel topped 104 for the first time this week, in the lead of the upward move of the industrials. J. I. Case and other specialties with "pool support" moved up a point or two. Texas Corporation, Sinclair and other Independent Oils advanced about a point on merger reports and further proration of Crude Oil flows. United Corporation, Electric Power, Columbia and Consolidated Gas, etc., led the way to higher prices in the Utility group. Westinghouse moved ahead about 1½ points to 72½ and Woolworth topped 72, up about a point.

With only one full session before the Independence Day double holiday, traders in all sections of the market were not inclined to wade in deeply, or to increase their speculative holdings of either stocks or commodities. The professionals churned the active stocks around in narrow price ranges, with frequent change of direction in fluctuations in prices. Private and government estimates of crop production are now in order and a good part of the country's prosperity will depend on harvests and crop prices. Cotton sold off about 50 cents a bale and Grain was steady. Call money 1½ per cent.

Praises Hoover

The rare picture of a prominent Democrat loudly praising the policies of a Republican President was painted when John J. Raskob, chairman of the Democratic National Committee, returning to New York from a trip abroad, was enthusiastic about President Hoover's proposal for a year's holiday on war debts. Raskob said debt suspension would benefit all countries. He's shown on S. S. Bremen.

APPROVES DESIGNS FOR BOULDER CITY BUILDINGS

These designs for three of the principal public buildings to be erected by the federal government at Boulder City, Nev., have been approved by Secretary of the Interior Ray L. Wilbur, under whose direction the construction of Boulder Dam over the Colorado river, and the building of the city to house the construction corps is proceeding. All architecture is to be of the Spanish type. The administration building, top, will cost $50,000; the postoffice, center, will cost $35,000; the $30,000 structure below is to be a combination dormitory and guest house.

Learning Japanese Dances in America

Learning Japanese dances from an American instructor is the queer paradox which engages these young maidens, American-born Japanese children of Santa Monica, Cal. It is almost as strange as our sending chefs to China to teach the natives the art of concocting chop suey. The little dancers are acquiring Americanized versions of their traditional Oriental steps under the tutelage of Ray Randolph.

Train That Travels 109 Miles An Hour

Called the "Zeppelin on Wheels," the peculiarly shaped train shown above at left is the latest development in railroad speed and comfort. On its maiden trip from Berlin to Hamburg the bullet-like train averaged 109 miles an hour and at one time attained a speed of 130. It took only half the time on the run that is required by the regular train, the Fern-D, fastest express in Germany. On the right is the orthodox type of locomotive, which may soon join the one-horse shay in being just a memory. Inset is Dr. Krukenberg, designer of the novel speed train.

Uncle Sam's Gobs to the Rescue

This exclusive view taken in mid-Atlantic from the deck of the Arctic submarine Nautilus shows a boat from the U. S. S. Wyoming running a towline from the disabled undersea craft to the warship which towed her into Queenstown, Ireland. The Wyoming rushed to the aid of the stricken submarine after the Nautilus' engines broke down, leaving the craft helpless in mountainous seas. Sir Hubert Wilkins, intrepid leader of the expedition to the North Pole, is shown in insert waving a cheery greeting to Queenstown upon the arrival of the Nautilus and its crew. Following repairs, the submarine will proceed on its journey under the ice to the Pole.

Unique Aviator

Although he owns and operates two airplanes, Anthony "Speed" Hanzlik, of Long Island City, N. Y., was never outside the New York district until recently when he flew 2,500 miles to Newfoundland to bring back pictures of the Ruth Nicholas crash. Up to that time, Hanzlik had never spent a night away from his family, nor had he ridden in a railroad train until forced down at New London, Conn., on his return trip when he was forced to hop a flyer to complete his unprecedented journey.

Prefers Jail

Mrs. Gertrude Roddick Drews (above), a San Francisco mother, prefers to languish in jail rather than reveal where she has hidden two of her five children whom juvenile court authorities seek to take from her on a charge that she is "unfit." Three children had previously been taken from her, and when the court decided to take the remaining two, she sent the children into hiding. She was given the choice of revealing their whereabouts or going to jail.

She Loves a Cowboy

Her love for a youthful cowboy, is the reason Mrs. Bessie Sharp, 20, above, has given for administering strychnine to her husband, Telefus Sharp, 21, on the Big Canyon ranch, in Terrell county, Texas, near San Antonio, according to police. Although she says Willie Burleson, the cowboy, wanted her to divorce her husband, but did not know that she was planning to poison him. Both have been held. Mrs. Sharp was taken to an asylum for mental observation.

Busch's mother, a member of one of President Hoover's research commissions, has welcomed the couple at her show-place estate while maintaining that there was no kidnaping and that the youngsters are in love.

Bucknell Prexies Enjoy Long Terms

Youthful President Of Bucknell Has Many Years Of Service Ahead

(International News Service)

LEWISBURG, Pa., July 2.—Dr. Homer P. Rainey, youthful president elect at Bucknell University here, can anticipate a long period of service if records of his predecessors are any indication.

In the 85 years of its existence, the university has had but five presidents, examination of records discloses, each of whom served an average of 17 years each.

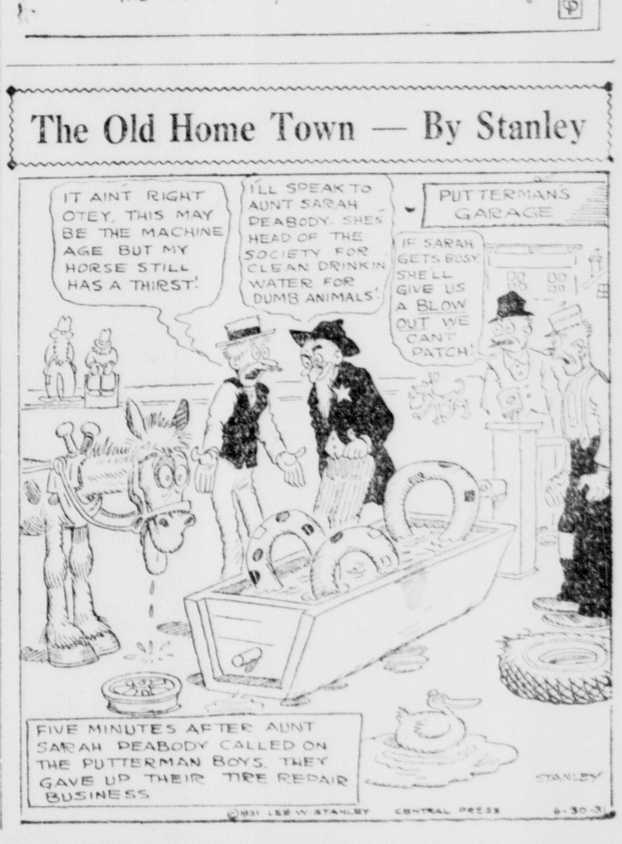

The late Dr. John Howard Harris had the longest administration, from 1889 to 1919. Dr. Emory W. Hunt who retired on June 9 of this year, was head of the university for 12 years. Other presidents were Dr. Howard Malcolm, Dr. Justin R. Loomis, and Dr. David Jayne, whose terms ranged from 6 to 21 years.

SAVES FAMILY—OF BIRDS

DENVER.—Denver firemen recently saved an entire family from certain death. Miss Pearl Rothwell had her roof repaired and the carpenters nailed shingles over a hole used by sparrows as a nest, imprisoning a family of birds. When Miss Rothwell discovered the plight of her feathered tenants she summoned the fire department who freed the birds.

Utility Head Admits Guards Fired On Engle

Says Accused Mahoning County Prosecutor Warned That Engle Threatened Him

COUNTY DETECTIVE GUARDED HIS HOME

Denies Offering Engle $10,000 For Services In Drawing Up Light Franchise

(International News Service)

YOUNGSTOWN, O., July 2.—The court record in the blackmail trial of Ray Thomas, Mahoning county prosecutor, today bore the admission of John T. Harrington, former president of the Trumbull Steel Company, later head of the Pennsylvania-Ohio Power and Light company, that guards on his estate fired on Harry Engle, the former City Traction Commissioner, when Engle sought to enter the grounds after being informed that the industrialist "did not care to see him."

Harrington, a defense witness in the trial, gave his sensational testimony late yesterday afternoon. He testified that guards posted along the driveway to his home were ordered to shoot at the tires on Engle's automobile. The first guard carried out the shooting orders, the witness said, but the second halted Engle without gunplay.

Scores Engle

The power company president testified that Thomas had warned him that Engle sought to kill him and thereafter he, was continually armed. At Thomas' request, he told the court he had permitted County Detective W. J. Harrison to guard his home for two nights.

"Absolutely false" was Herrington's characterization of Engle's testimony that he had agreed to pay the traction commissioner $10,000 for his services as an "adviser" in drawing up the 1925 city lighting franchise. The company's own experts could have been used in drawing up the contracts and it was "extremely unlikely" that an inexperienced power salesman such as Engle would be called in, Harrington maintained.

Harrington testified he never gave Engle the "A and B Contracts" upon which the deposed commissioner sought to collect $150,000 from the company for "services rendered". His attempts to collect the money resulted in the writing of a letter to city council by Thomas charging Engle with blackmail. Thomas himself was then indicted on a blackmail charge preferred by Engle on the basis of the letter.
